Timothy and Seal were amazing. Such polite helpful young men. They were very efficient in time and loading the pod. Highly recommend!

Kenny and CJ did a great job- showed up right on time and were very careful unloading all of my stuff and getting it moved into the house. They were very professional and I would not hesitate to use them again in the future.

the two guys were superb. Their performance and professionalism and expertise on loading the unit was great, Will use you all again.

James and his crew are amazing! We needed help packing and loading for our international move and AAA Allstar not only got the job done efficiently but James made us feel at ease with each step of the process. He is clear in his communication, arrives on time and works to make sure that you and your belongings are taken care of. I would 100% recommend AAA Allstar!

The guys were amazing! Very friendly and hard workers. They finished up in under 2 hours unloading a 12 foot truck up 3 flights of stairs. Well worth the money!

Great team of movers that made a hard job quite easy. Had a small window to load truck and their help made the job get down quick and efficiently. They arrived early and got right on the job. Would recommend to anyone looking for help in moving or loading/unloading.

They did a great job dealing with loading of all our belongings, careful, respectful, timely & if I move back to the Bay Area I would definitely consider using them again. Thank you very much, Fred H.

D'andre and his assistant (I'm sorry I don't remember his name) did a great job unloading our U haul boxes this morning. They were extremely polite and worked very hard putting everything exactly where we needed it. They were fast and efficient. We just moved in to a newer community and will definitely recommend them to anyone who needs help unloading or packing. So very pleased Export loading team that was easy to interact with. I was shocked at how much they were able to load into our 16' POD.

Awesome job, I had to extend the time two more hours.

Josiah, Cory, and Cameron are one hell of a crew. They were professional hard working individuals that make a great team. I would recommend them to anyone and I would hire them again.

We're on time we're able to help solve any problemsDid not need extra time to complete the jobVery friendly and professional Absolutely phenomenal. I was blown away with the efficiency with which the team worked. The team showed up on time to the minute to load my Upack trailer. I was expecting the job to take anywhere from 3-4 hours but they got it done in under 2.5 and had everything loaded in the first 23' of the trailer. I would 100% recommend them to anybody in their service radius in Eastern Nebraska.

Fantastic job, on time worked hard did as I asked. I would definitely use them again.

Super friendly, helpful, and efficient!

They arrived ahead of the scheduled time and finished early. I would hire them again

They were freaking amazing!

I was not present as they unloaded the POD with my mother's furniture and items into her senior retirement complex. I arrived the next morning with bed and sectional sofa assembled, furniture and grandfather clock placed, and plenty of boxes to unpack.

Page: 10 Best Home Security Systems of 2023 - Buying Guide & Reviews

With a 140-year track record, ADT is the nation's best-known home security & monitoring brand for a reason. There are many benefits to choosing professional monitoring from ADT, and they offer competitive monthly prices. The cost can be expensive for the higher-end ADT packages, but you definitely get what you pay for. ADT's response time averages a respectable 45 seconds, and they have multiple monitoring centers so their reliability is second to none. ADT is consistently top-rated for customer service, with the rare exception of reported difficulties in terminating long-term contracts.

ADT complete home security systems with monitoring are modern and user-friendly. You can choose between connection types, such as landline or broadband, which will be the primary way your system is linked to ADT's network of 6 monitoring centers. While any wired connection can go down with a power outage, ADT also offers CellGuard, their cellular monitoring service, for redundant protection so your home remains monitored even in the extreme event of a power outage.

ADT requires professional installation, but that charge is covered in the initial fee, and installation can be completed same-day in most areas. You will need to speak to an ADT sales representative to get the final cost of the equipment due to the many variables involved in pricing.

To check out our full review of ADT security systems, dive into the article below. You'll learn about the range of options that are available with ADT's various plans to find out whether their system offers what you need to help keep your home safe and secure.

ADT's customer service scores are consistently best-in-class with a helpful and accessible 24/7 customer support team.

The only negative customer service issue that comes up frequently with ADT is difficulty with the cancellation process for long-term contracts. However, if you intend to stay with ADT throughout the entire time you own your home (as most customers do), this shouldn't be much of a concern.

The ADT security systems are easy to use and understand. ADT offers home-automation systems through their ADT Smart and ADT Complete Packages. These packages may allow you to remotely arm and disarm your home's security system, display video monitoring, control temperature and lights, receive alerts and custom notifications, as well as lock and unlock doors.

ADT requires professional equipment installation but the good news is the installation fee is already included in the upfront package costs.

SimpliSafe is best home monitoring system option for renters because it's so portable. The up-front equipment cost is higher than most systems, but the equipment is yours to keep. Also, SimpliSafe has an impressive 10-second response time, which is the fastest of all the security systems we reviewed.

This entirely wireless system is quite user-friendly, and the installation process is relatively easy and straightforward. The remote control allows you to arm and disarm the alarm using a keychain fob or the SimpliSafe app. Furthermore, the app lets you control your SimpliSafe security system from anywhere in the world. We should note that the SimpliSafe app is only compatible with the more expensive monitoring plan, though.

SimpliSafe lags behind the competition on customer service front. Users have not been very happy with the way dispatch calls from the monitoring system function for false alarms because they frequently resulted in additional charges. Moreover, the overall opinion is that the company's customer service is not very helpful when it comes to fixing problems and resolving recurring usage issues. If you want to learn more about how SimpliSafe can help make your home more safe and secure, be sure to check out our full review.

A note of importance, if you want to get the SimpliSafe app, then you would have to subscribe to the more expensive monitoring plan.

SimpliSafe has the most impressive response time of all home security companies we reviewed. Their timeframe for response in under 10 seconds, which we must admit is quite remarkable.

One category where SimpliSafe has gotten somewhat dissatisfying reviews is customer service. Most users are not very happy with the way dispatch calls from the monitoring system function for false alarms because they can frequently result in additional charges. Moreover, the overall opinion is that the company's customer service is not very helpful when it comes to fixing problems and recurring usage issues.

Because of the wireless equipment, the installation process is pretty straightforward; you just have to choose where to put the devices. They come with an instruction manual, which is filled with recommendations to help you pick the best spots in your house. They're easy to move around the house or to take them with you if you move.

The remote control is one of the features of this home security system so that you can arm and disarm the alarms with the keychain or the app. The SimpliSafe app lets you control your SimpliSafe security system from anywhere in the world. It's available for iPhone and Android.

Vivint is a professionally-installed and monitored home security system with an integrated home automation platform. This company is known as one of the pioneers of home automation technology on the market today. It carries the highest price of the companies we've reviewed, but it offers best-in-class smart home and home automation features. This equipment for this professionally-installed system is simple, sleek, and easy-to-use. On the downside, there are issues with Vivint's customer service, and the average response time is difficult to calculate because customer reviews vary by as much as 10 seconds. Online reviews complain about various issues with the service and that it carries a high price. Government action was recently taken against Vivint because the company had issues with alleged misrepresentation of provided services and hiring unlicensed company agents.

Those who require the latest technology for their home monitoring system and who don't mind paying a higher price could be very happy using Vivint Smart Home. Read the full review to learn more about whether Vivint is right for you.

Additionally, Vivint also integrates with Amazon Echo, which allows you to control certain system features through voice commands.

Response time is a bit of a tricky question for Vivint, because according to experiences by users so far, Vivint's response time can vary significantly. According to the company, their official response time is under 10 seconds.

Vivint was awarded the J.D. Power award for "Highest in Customer Satisfaction with Home Security Systems" in 2017. However, once we examined customer service reviews online, the high price of the service and Vivint's service itself were common complaints for some customers.

In fact, government action was recently taken against Vivint because the company had issues with alleged misrepresentation of provided services and hiring unlicensed company agents. On top of that, some customers encountered troubles with service cancellation, installation of faulty equipment, and overly pushy reps.

Vivint is one of the pioneers of home automation technology on the market today. Therefore, the panel and the app they feature for the use of this system have been fine-tuned make it extremely easy to use. For example, each of the automation features we mentioned above can be activated with the app, no matter where you're located. The app is available in the app stores for both iPhone and Android devices.

When it comes to installation, it's best to have a professional handle this task. Vivint is a professionally-installed and monitored home security system with a home automation platform. A team of three to four installers will need to install cameras, the system panel, and additional equipment (depending on what's included in each custom package). After installation, they can instruct you about how to use your new home system no matter where you're located, which is a key advantage of choosing a Vivint home security system.

Frontpoint is a newer player in the home alarm security system scene. It offers a DIY installation option, which is an attractive feature for some customers. The system is compatible with Google and Alexa for some basic home automation integration. Also, this system has a very high customer satisfaction rating. The company's emergency response time is about 30 seconds, which is average. Once installed, the Frontpoint Security system is fairly easy to navigate, and there is a convenient remote-control app for this system that's compatible with both iOS and Android.

Based on our review, however, there are several down sides to selecting Frontpoint Security. The company relies on long-term contracts (although they do offer discounts along with some long-term contracts), offers no professional installation option, no landline option, and has the highest monthly monitoring fees of all the companies we reviewed.

If you want to learn more about how Frontpoint can help keep your home safe and secure read our full review. You'll learn about the options that Frontpoint offers, and learn whether Frontpoint is the best choice for you and the security of your home.

This is another category where Frontpoint wins points from their customers. According to most users, Frontpoint is very timely and responsive, and they give great advice and suggestions regarding packages and monitoring plan options. Moreover, users seem to like the professionalism and attention to detail displayed from the Frontpoint customer service team.

Ease installation is the category is where Frontpoint shines as a company. In fact, they have the best DIY home security system that you can install yourself. Since everything is wireless, you won't have any complicated installation issues. If you need any additional tips on where to place the devices, you can go to their website for more help and guidance. The company also includes a Quick Start Guide with every package that explains every step of the installation in detail.

Once installed, the Frontpoint security system is pretty easy to use, since it doesn't require any additional learning curves. Because of the home automation feature, you have the option to install the Frontpoint app and gain remote control over your security system, alarm history and visitor activity.

The app is compatible with iPhone and Android users.

Brinks Home Security is well-recognized for offering professionally monitored security systems. These systems offer the flexibility of either professional or DIY installation. As a partner with Nest, they also allow you to choose between using their own equipment or Nest Secure equipment and monitoring. If you choose Nest Secure, Brinks will provide the ongoing staff and support for that system. Choosing Brinks comes at a premium price, but they do offer financing options for equipment at low or no interest. The monitoring itself is low cost, and it comes with a 2-year warranty (although some options also require a 3-year commitment). There are steep early-termination fees, but if you go with Nest Secure, there is an alternative month-to-month plan.

With an average 30-second emergency response time and power outage backup, the system offers solid peace of mind for subscribers. Brinks' technology is top-notch with great home automation features. Note that there is no landline option, which may be important to some people.

It's important to know that the Brinks of yesteryear isn't the same company as the Brinks of today. The company went through a rebranding and renaming phase in 2009 as Broadview Security due to ownership changes. However, MONI Smart Security obtained the name rights for Brinks and brought the original name back to market in 2018. MONI Smart Security has a history of customer service challenges, but J.D. Power recently ranked Brinks #1 in customer satisfaction. You can learn more about specific options and features that are available with the new Brinks in the following review.

Brinks won the first place award for customer service and satisfaction in 2018 according to J.D. Power. According to company policy, the comfort and happiness of customers always comes first. That's the reason why they created their version of the Customer Bill of Rights. Brinks home security even has a dedicated phone number to text suggestions and feedback.

Another major plus for Brinks Home Security is the installation process, which was designed to be as simple and easy as possible. The company completely preconfigures the equipment according to your preferences before it's shipped. Therefore, the only thing you need to do when the equipment arrives is to place it in the appropriate places, connect it, and activate the system.

The equipment is 100 percent wireless, meaning you won't have to drill or change the structure of your home in any way.

On the other hand, if you don't want to bother with this process yourself, you can use the Brinks Pro Install services. The installation fee for this additional service is $199 if you pay upfront or $10 per month.

The system is very easy to install. The company's mobile app, Alarm.com, gives you centralized, remote control over the whole system with a user-friendly interface. It's available for iOS, Android, Blackberry, Windows phone, Pebble Watch, Kindle, Apple TV, Amazon Fire TV, and the Apple Watch. You can also remotely access the system through your account by logging into m.alarm.com.

Additionally, Brinks home security systems come with a two-year guarantee, which you can extend for a lifetime for an additional fee. Furthermore, there are impressive integration features for many popular smart home devices, including Nest Thermostat, Amazon Alexa, and Google Home.

Protect America offers the advantage of no up-front fee and competitive monthly monitoring costs. They have an approximately 12-second emergency response time, which makes the system competitive with other big players in the market. The company's customer service reviews are mixed, however: customers complain about a difficult cancellation process and aggressive sales tactics. It should be noted that customers who didn't go through the cancellation process were generally happy with the company's service.

Protect America delivers the home security system equipment to your door and allows you to handle the installation and setup yourself. The company says that setup should take less than an hour. A key offering is SMART Connect, a free home security smartphone app developed by Protect America that allows remote control from anywhere, and is available for both Android and iOS. Furthermore, the company offers a landline option along with cellular and broadband, which can be a great backup when needed. On the other hand, the least expensive Protect America plans actually do require a landline, which some customers may find annoying.

Customers have the option to lease or buy the equipment (which comes with a lifetime guarantee). If you want to learn more about options Protect America offers to keep your home safe and secure, take a look at our full review.

The company provides a dedicated customer service line along with a personal home security portal, where you can log in and ask for help if you need it. However, the main issue most customers encounter with this company is the aggressive sales tactics used by the company's reps.

Another recurring problem is the cancelation process, as with any company that requires you to sign an agreement. However, most customers that don't need to go through cancelation are rather happy with the customer service.

As with all other DIY home security systems, Protect America delivers the equipment to your door and lets you handle the rest. Of course, they will provide you with a user manual and additional tips if you need them, but since the equipment is wireless, you shouldn't have any complex installation issues. They say the complete installation should take less than an hour.

SMART Connect is a free home security smartphone app developed by Protect America that allows remote control from anywhere. It provides a complete overview of the home, from the locks on the doors to the live video stream. If in any moment an alarm is triggered, you'll receive a notification from Protect America.

The app is available for both Android and iOS. Moreover, this home security system makes everything simple for the user because of the full automation and integration features with many smart home devices such as the Amazon Echo Dot.

The company also offers the "2 Way Voice on All Panels" feature, which is a very useful addition on the features list. This way you can talk with the company's Central Monitoring Station directly through the panel, and cut down the response time in half.

The official response time for Link Interactive is 20 seconds, which puts the company right in the middle. Whether that matters is if an additional 10-second response time makes a difference to your peace of mind. If so, we recommend you look at SimpliSafe, which has an average response time of 10 seconds. But it could be worse: Xfinity Home has a 45-second average response rate.

In general, the customer reviews regarding the quality of service are positive, which can sometimes be hard to find in the home security business. Even though it's less severe and issues with a contract cancelation, most people report longer waiting times and limited hours of support. Link Interactive customer support is open from 8am-10pm CST Monday through Friday, and from 9am-6pm CST on Saturdays. Customer support is closed on Sundays.

Link Interactive combines home security and home automation through its mobile app, which is available for both Apple and Android users. The app is quite simple and intuitive, and furthermore, it allows you to remain in complete control of your home security. You can lock or unlock doors, adjust the temperature, follow a live video stream, or turn on/off the lights.

Link Interactive is big on DIY installation, which means you have to do it all yourself. Some handy people love this approach, others not so much, but it usually doesn't matter because the process is quite simple. If you have any trouble figuring out where devices should be placed, you should check out the installation video on the Link Interactive website.

Ring is an Amazon-owned company, meaning you buy your system from them and it will best integrate with other Amazon home automation products. Ring offers the lowest monthly rates, and the lowest total cost of ownership for all the companies we reviewed. You can get set up with no long-term contracts, and you can even purchase the equipment a la carte. Amazon offers 24/7 customer support, and customers report a high rate of satisfaction. The system has power outage protection. It is a great choice if you want a less expensive security system.

Ring Alarm is generally easy to use. Every element is wireless and connected to the iOS- and Android-compatible app. Following set up, you'll be able to see, hear and communicate with everyone who is at your door through your phone. The equipment itself has a clean, sophisticated style.

There are some downsides to choosing a Ring Alarm, however. Installation is strictly DIY, with the process advertised as taking about 20 minutes. The caveat is that it can be tough to get the right support if you run into any issues or roadblocks. Surprisingly, there's no home automation beyond Alexa compatibility. If you want to dive into the details to learn more about whether Ring Alarm is right for your home security needs, check out our full review.

Plus, you can subscribe to Ring's 24/7 professional monitoring service for a shockingly affordable $10 / mo.

Ring Alarm features a “Verified Response” dispatch protocol in some jurisdictions through emergency response departments in order to reduce the number of false alarms. However, as a user, you have to subscribe to the professional monitoring service. The cost of a private guard responder to the alarm site is $75.00 for the first 20 minutes and $1.25 every minute after that. The company hasn’t issued an official response time yet.

Ring Alarm offers 24/7 customer support. According to the user reviews the quality of their customer service is excellent. The company’s technicians are highly skilled and professional, and customer support is helpful.

Simplicity is the main selling point of the Ring Alarm security system. Therefore, installing the device is not an issue; on the contrary, according to user reviews, it takes less than 20 minutes to set up the system. The devices come with detailed instructions and double sided tape you can use to mount the sensors. Moreover, the box also includes all necessary screws and wall fasteners if you want a permanent installation.

Another great feature of the Ring Alarm is compatibility with other security devices you might have in your home. The only thing you have to do is scan the QR code on the back of the sensor, which will trigger the app to find the device and connect with it.

The Ring Alarm is fairly simple to use since every piece is wireless and connected to the Ring app (available for iOS and Android). Once you log in, you will receive clear instructions that are easy to follow. From the moment you’re done with the setup, you’ll be able to see, hear and communicate with everyone in front of your doorstep through your phone. Ring Alarm is a high-quality DIY home security system with smart features and great responsiveness. In fact, the reason people use and endorse this system is the feeling of added security it provides.

Nest Secure comes with DIY and professional installation options, and the system is controlled through the Nest app. The system can detect when a house has been empty for a period of time and send a prompt to the owner to set the alarms. On the downside, customers report having difficulty getting tech support. Dive into our full review to learn more about the technology that sets Nest Secure apart. We'll help you decide it is the right choice for the safety and security of your home.

For all the advantages of Nest Secure, the quality of customer service is not one of them. In fact, unsatisfied customers generally have a problem getting through to skilled technicians when they have technical issues.

Setting up the devices around the house is very simple and straightforward. Since everything is wireless, you only need to decide where to place the equipment without any complex installation procedures.

Like all Nest devices, you can control your Nest Secure home system through the Nest app. That means that you can monitor each sensor, assign names, and activate or deactivate your system all from one security screen.

Because Nest Secure is part of the Nest ecosystem, it's easy to jump from your Nest Secure to the Nest Cam live feed. You can change the temperature on your thermostat and lock the doors, all with just a few swipes.

Additionally, the Nest Tag is simple and easy to use. Every time you walk inside or outside your house, all you have to do is use the coin-sized key fob to engage with the security system. You can easily get extra fobs additional users.

Based on our tests and interviews with owners of each system, SimpliSafe is the better system for renters who want a portable system they can take with them when they move (or are unable to make changes to the house such as installing a hard-wired home alarm system like ADT). It's also cheaper than ADT's monthly monitoring. However, ADT is the best known brand in the industry and their superior equipment and monitoring service tend to justify the higher price for many homeowners. If you own a home and want the best possible system to protect your home against all contingencies, then go with ADT

Thieves are much more likely to attempt a break-in when they feel there is less risk involved for them. Studies cited online have shown that home alarm systems can help deter burglars.. In these studies, convicted burglars were asked about their motivations and methods. The studies, each conducted in different regions, all drew the same conclusions about the benefits of using a home security system.

To be effective, however, your home security system must be visible to potential criminals. This means using security cameras, signs, and stickers, and strategically placing lights around your home. One study even found that home security systems can help to protect other homes in the area, not just the home that has the system installed.

The bottom line is that home alarm systems are clearly very effective in protecting residential safety and are worth the investment for greater peace of mind for you and your family.

Some homeowners post decoy alarm signs hoping they'll deter potential burglars. These signs might be affixed to a front door, a prominent window, posted in the front yard, or at the top of a driveway. The idea of posting a security alarm system sign is that prospective crooks may not want to take a gamble about whether the sign indicates the presence of a home security system. Potential burglars by and large prefer easier targets with the least amount of risk involved. Homeowners also sometimes install fake security cameras using the same reasoning. It makes sense that alarm signs alone will deter some burglars. However, this strategy isn't foolproof: burglars have become savvy to the practice of posting fake signs and cameras, and ever-bolder criminals might be willing to take a risk. Therefore, each homeowner has to consider their own risk tolerance, but it's usually worth investing in an actual home security system that offers solid peace of mind.

I have been utilizing Frontpoint for the past seven years and realized I have been writing checks for too much. Currently there are a handful of good burglar alarm monitoring substitutes on the market that happens to be effectively half the price tag for the same level of service. Really worth exploring to save some hard cash most definitely because a few do not demand any commitment which the big dealers mandate. Disappointing.

Has anybody utilized safehomecentral for home security system monitoring as of yet? The savings appears extremely good but usually curious in other people's feedback in advance of attempting somebody different.

Is there a difference between the best self-monitored home security system and the best complete wireless home security alarm system with monitoring? I know I want a wireless home security system with cameras, but I'm trying to decide between one with monitoring vs. self-monitored. Any insight would be a big help!

Thanks

ADT the evil empire and employer of the BTK serial killer. Once you sign the monitoring contract they neglect you.

Informative Article!! Improving home privacy is one of the important tasks. Our home should be the most secure places in our lives. This is where we have the family and the most expensive things in our lives such as jewellery, money and credit cards. These are some of the main things that burger usually look for.

One of the biggest perks of Vivint s advanced home automation tech is the full integration of smart home management and home security. All of the equipment works together from security cameras to smart locks and you need only one app to control it all. Plus, Vivint works with third-party smart home devices like Amazon Alexa, Google Home, and Nest.

Would the answer for best home security system with cameras vs. best self-monitored home security system vs. best diy home security system all be the same one or is it different? Thanks

We design, install and service a wide range of wireless and hard-wired home alarm systems and commercial security systems serving Westchester NY and the surrounding area. This is a great list!

Are you a devoted DIY enthusiast? Are you OK with skipping professional monitoring services for a system that you don't have to pay for every month? Nest has one of the best solutions on the market for those who are already comfortable with managing their own smart homes.

Great analysis and comparison. Thank you very much!

I have been using Frontpoint for the last 7 years and assumed I had been spending far too much. Currently there are several good security monitoring substitutes to choose from which cost about half as much for the same service. Definitely worth considering to save dough certainly considering that a number of do not demand any long term contract which the big dealers call for. Have any of you made use of SimpliSafe for burglar alarm monitoring? The price looks outstanding but normally curious in other's criticism in advance of trying something new.

One of the most exciting things Brinks offers is the Nest Secure home security system. You can buy your Nest equipment from Brinks and add professional monitoring with no contract required. Monitoring fees begin at $29, and equipment costs range from $299 to $499. Brinks also provides financing options for both Nest Secure and Brinks home security packages. If you opt for one of Brinks's home security packages (without Nest), a 36-month contract is required.

I own an older Honeywell Lynx Touch wireless alarm system and I've been researching this theme for almost three weeks at this point and this is actually the very first page which actually makes perfect sense. Why is it so difficult to access effective material involving security nowadays? Definitely value the effort you invested placing your thoughts in to words so amateurs like myself can certainly take a step. Maybe there is a part 2 on your page? Thank you again!

I've been reading many articles about the best home security system for 2020 and this has been the most helpful yet. Great write up, thank you!

Glad to see Ring in the list. I just got a ring system off of amazon and was able to get it installed and set up myself the day it came. Works great and you really can't beat the $10 / month monitoring cost. Seems crazy to pay 2-5x that much from other providers for a similar service. Anyway, very happy Ring customer!

Great guide, awesome that we have so many choices in 2020!

Good to see that ADT is still the best. I've had an ADT system in every home I've owned and love how well everyone (including potential burglars) know the ADT brand. Deterrence is the first line of defense!

I got the Vivint system, the smart home features are amazing. Feels like I'm living in the year 2050!

Great guide, thank you!

Has anyone had experience with try to cancel the contract for ADT? Do they make it really hard and charge extra fees? Or is it a pretty easy cancel? Thanks

Can anyone who has an ADT system speak to whether it's worth the cost compared to cheaper systems like SimpliSafe or Ring?

Excellent comparison. Thank you!!

Though the brand isn't as strong as ADT which makes me a bit more worried that a burglar won't respect it, SimpliSafe definitely seems like the best security system to go with in terms of features / cost.

Great breakdown thanks

I used to have a Brinks system way back in the day. Good to see them making a comeback, probably switch back to them from ADT when my contract is up.

Very helpful comparison. Thank you!

I installed a wireless system from Kangaroo a year ago at my house. I chose this system due to the fact that it is wireless, it works through a wi-fi network and has its own application on the phone, with which I can monitor my home. And for the price I really liked, I distorted not expensive but high-quality protection.

Is there any way to enable smart home features with SimpliSafe or do I need one of the more expensive systems like ADT or Vivint?

Seems like Ring systems is a screaming deal. Anybody switch from ADT to Ring? Is it as good? What do you lose for the lower price? Thanks

I currently get home security with adt security services, and definitely seems like I'm getting a better deal compared to frontpoint security cost. After reading this however, the simplisafe monthly fee looks really attractive. Anybody have experience switching from adt to simplisafe?

I switched from Frontpoint to Brinks and couldn't be happier. Lowered my bill and the system is much nicer.

Just made the switch to SimpliSafe after 12 years as an ADT customer at my last home. So far so good!

I just ordered an ADT system for install tomorrow. Good experience so far. Looking forward to testing it out once set up.

Hate to break it to y'all but a German Shepard works better than any of these fancy alarm systems

I've been searching for the best diy home security system with cameras, and it's still now clear which is the best for that. I see that frontpoint security is best diy system, but is it good for video? I checked the us news home security guide too as well as reddit and couldn't find a good answer there either. Anyone have insight or experience to share on this?

I've been a customer of ADT for years, good to know they're still the best!

I got the ring system because of the low cost, but am still going to buy ADT signs to put in my yard and windows since any burglar knows exactly what that ADT logo means. Best of both worlds!

Which of these security systems has the best alarm monitoring service in terms of quality vs. cost?

Great guide. Thank you!

Just moved to Los Angeles and I think I'm going to invest in a home security system for the first time. I like the portability and low cost of Ring and SimpliSafe, but sounds like ADT is still the best option despite the higher cost. I guess when compared to the cost of my house, it's a pretty cheap price to pay to keep it safe and protected.

I wonder if there are stats on how many people use each of these services across the US?

(updated Mar 2023)

Welcome to the web's most comprehensive hub for every major relocation study in America: migration reports and government census data. Our mission is to combine, compare and contrast data across every major moving report to explain in plain English where Americans are moving (plus a whole lot of other interesting things, too!).

Read on to explore the stats or use one of the headings above to jump to the section that interests you the most.

See how many Americans move each year, and how the number of people on the move varies across demographics, such as age and race, as well as socioeconomic characteristics, such as education, income, and household tenure.

That's 4% more than moved in 2021, which is the first time in a decade moving volume has grown year-over-year.

15% of Millennials (aged 29-40) and 12% of Gen Z (15-29) moved in 2022, the highest % among all age groups. Only 5% of people aged 60+ moved last year.

(Source: U.S. Census Bureau - CPS: Annual Social Economic Supplement 2022)

Black or African Americans were the second most active demographic, as 10% of them moved in 2022. White Americans were most likely to stay put, as only 8% of them moved in the past year.

(Source: U.S. Census Bureau - CPS: Annual Social Economic Supplement 2022)

Americans who have an undergraduate degree were moving at higher rates than both Americans without a college education and those with a post-graduate degree, such as masters or a doctoral degree.

The full breakdown of moving rates by education is as follows:

(Source: U.S. Census Bureau - CPS: Annual Social Economic Supplement 2022)

One in ten (10%) Americans with an income between $25,000 and $50,000 moved last year, which is higher than both high earners and people on lower incomes.

Overall, the relationship between income and the likelihood of moving in 2022 appears to be such that the higher your income, the less likely you are to relocate.

(Source: U.S. Census Bureau - CPS: Annual Social Economic Supplement 2022)

In this past year, renters were three times more likely to move than those who own their own homes.

See the states and cities Americans are most eagerly moving to, as well as those they are most likely to leave. Discover the most popular destinations, and see which U.S. states and cities have seen the largest net gains and losses from moving, based on our most recent stats.

The ratio of people moving to people moving out was the most favorable in Vermont, where twice as many people moved to the state, than left it last year.

The states that saw the most people moving in, rather than out, are:

The number of Americans leaving the Garden State was 41% higher than those choosing to relocate here, as New Jersey is the state with the greatest “net loss” in movers for the second year in a row.

More than four times more people moved to The Villages, FL than left this city in 2022, giving it a net moving ratio of 348%.

The 10 cities, where the number of people moving in was significantly higher than the number of people moving out are:

It's worth noting, that five out of those 10 cities are in Florida.

While it's not unusual for Californian cities to have more people leaving than moving in, it's the first time San Jose, CA tops this ranking. As many as 74% more people left this city in 2022, compared to the number of those moving in.

The 10 cities that had the greatest net loss in terms of moving are:

Moves out of counties at risk for extreme heat (45%) and droughts (37%) accounted for 82% of all climate change-related moves in the United States.

These guys were AWESOME!!! I was sooo nervous because I didn't think all my large furniture would fit in this container. These brothers came in and I showed them what I had and what I hoped can go in the container. They PACKED ERRRTHING!!! They even packed our 3 bikes! Yes, these guys are AWESOME. I took some of their business cards to pass them out to my friends! They are 10 STAR RATING!MIKE G.

Very good crew... not only did they unload everything well, they also helped to fix problems that occurred during the move... they moved furniture more than once to get it into the just right place... all with a cheerful attitude. I would definitely recommend them!

They arrived on time; keeping me informed of what time they would be here. They were very careful of my furniture and house. They confirmed with me at the end that all my furniture was placed exactly where I wanted it. They were efficient, didn't waste time and were friendly. The cost was the best of all the quotes I got. I am VERY pleased with their service and would hire them again.

On time, cautious with my belongings. Quick workers and gracious with placement of furniture etc. I highly recommend these guys

Great team! They arrived slightly before the arrival window and went to work right away. The moving team was: - Respectful- Did not take a break during 2 hours of work- Careful not to damage property - Assembled furniture and even helped solve a leveling issue with a large piece of furniture. We would use this same team again.

They showed up on time ready to work. Listened intently to our plan and worked diligently to get items moved and loaded into our POD. All of our antique furniture was handled with great care and wrapped securely when loaded and packed into the container. All workers were friendly and courteous and worked hard for the time present. Would definitely recommend and hire again in the future.

New background checks may be required periodically to be eligible to fulfill Marketplace Work Orders.

As a Provider with PMG, you agree that you and any Personnel will be free of any alcohol or drugs while performing Services for a User. You agree that, if required by a particular program for Moving Pros, PMG may require you and any Personnel to pass drug testing and adhere to certain qualifications required by Users or applicable law. Similarly, if you accept any Work Order in which a User or applicable law requires you or your Personnel to be drug tested, you will only send Personnel for whom you have submitted proof of passing a drug test to fulfill those Work Orders. Any falsification of drug-testing proof or sending non-tested Personnel to fulfill any Work Order that requires drug-testing will be grounds for immediate deactivation of your account. PMG reserves the right to randomly audit Personnel on any Work Order requiring drug tested Personnel. If anything occurs that could jeopardize the drug test status of any Personnel, you agree to notify PMG immediately. PMG also reserves the right to randomly require Personnel to resubmit new drug tests at any time. All Personnel must pass new drug tests periodically to fulfill any Work Order that requires drug-tested Personnel.

As a Provider, you commit that you will provide safe and legally registered and insured services. You agree that, in performing work that you received as a result of the Services:

If you receive a Marketplace Work Order request to provide services, you agree to contact the User within twenty-four (24) hours to confirm the details of the Marketplace Work Order when it is booked and between twenty-four (24) and forty-eight (48) hours before the scheduled Service start time. If you do not reply within 24 hours, you will receive another email notification and a 24-hour grace period to respond to the Marketplace Work Order. If you indicate in your account that you can offer same day and/or next day service, you must respond to a Marketplace Work Order notification 2 hours in advance of the requested start time or within 24 hours, whichever is sooner. If you fail to respond to a Marketplace Work Order notification, the Marketplace Work Order will be re-routed to a different Moving Pro in the market area; PMG reserves the right to deactivate your account or terminate your right to respond to the Marketplace Work Order;

You agree to all the specific terms of the Marketplace Work Order, including the date, time of arrival, number of helpers, number of hours and the specified moving service listed in the Work Order description from the User; if you fail to comply with all terms of a Work Order, PMG reserves the right to deactivate your account; When you provide labor only service, you agree you will not provide any transportation or assistance with any transportation (including trucks or any vehicles of any kind). You will perform the work in a professional manner, with the degree of skill and care that is required by the highest industry standards;

You will maintain a professional and helpful demeanor, and act in a controlled and courteous manner when interacting with Users and PMG.

You will complete the work in a timely and responsive manner;

You will comply with all applicable laws, rules and regulations;

You will maintain reliable performance based on expectations set forth by PMG and will comply with all expectations and procedures.

You will not make any representations, promises, guarantees or warranties on behalf of PMG.

If you subcontract any of the work, you will ensure that your subcontractors and all performing Personnel meet all of the requirements of the Terms applicable to Providers and these Terms of Service for Providers, including those relating to qualifications, licenses, insurance, data use and security, and compliance with applicable law. Any action or omission by your subcontractor that would be a breach if done by you will be deemed to be a breach by you.

You agree to enter all pertinent payment information related to moving services into your account. Moving Pros must list their rates for certain Services, though not all, in order to be listed on the Platform. Two (2) hours of Service will be the minimum for which each Moving Pro can provide Services.

When you create your account, you may indicate whether you are available to provide time and/or Service beyond the pre-booked hours ("Overage"). The default option will be that you do not provide Overage. If you elect to indicate you are willing to provide Overage, you agree to that availability on every Marketplace Work Order in circumstances where more time is needed. Additional hours will be calculated at fifteen (15) minute increments at the hourly rate that the Marketplace Work Order was booked under.

Your options for your refund policy are listed in Your Account. It is your responsibility to make clear what your refund policy is in Your Account. If you elect to offer refunds for unused time, you agree to refund Users on every Marketplace Work Order when a User requests a refund for the unused time. If you elect to not offer refunds for unused time, but show up late to an order, the User is entitled to a refund of unused time equal to the amount of time you were late by.

Porch may provide you with personal information relating to Users that are seeking products or services. You agree that:

You, not PMG, are responsible for the services you provide to Users. Even if PMG books, schedules, processes payment for and otherwise facilitates your work with the User, you are not an employee or agent of PMG and you, not PMG, are responsible for your work. You will not represent that you are an employee or agent of PMG. If your account with PMG is no longer active or is terminated, you will not represent that you provide services through any PMG program or network.

You agree that, except to the extent specifically permitted by the terms of a written agreement between you and a User with respect to a project, you will not file or record any lien, claim of lien, stop payment notice, stop notice, security interest, or other encumbrance ("Encumbrance") on the property of any User or PMG; and if you become aware of an Encumbrance related to your work for a User that is not expressly permitted by your agreement with that User, you will cause the release, dissolution, cancelation or removal of that Encumbrance within five (5) business days, irrespective of its validity. We have the right, but not the obligation, to take any and all steps necessary to promptly release any Encumbrances. You will reimburse PMG and any User (unless contracted to otherwise with User) all costs and expenses, including but not limited to legal fees, incurred by us or the User as a result of any Encumbrances.

Very pleasant gentlemen, did the job in an efficient and professional manner. I recommend them.

Came on time and went straight to work. No breaks. Excellent. Thanks

These guys were great. On time, extremely courteous, and very professional. They worked hard in the heat and humidity without a complaint. They even threw in some humor to make the whole moving experience fun. I'd recommend them to anyone considering help with moving.

Such a cheerful, hardworking, uncomplaining, heavy lifting crew!

We had lunch together and they shared interesting information about their family's culture and favorite foods.

I especially liked they brought materials to wrap the wooden tops of furniture, as well as use pads.

They stayed to lay the carpets, arrange furniture and assemble the bed. I will definitely use them again.

The crew was on time, professional and got everything done in the time window booked. They packed my rental truck efficiently and all my items arrived to my destination in the same condition they left.

Yes, they were wonderful gentlemen and they came to help. Jay and Will were very good and patient with us. We appreciate the help I would recommend them to anybody. very friendly and courteous

Hard workers and will definitely Persevere through any challenges that might come up. I will definitely use them again in the near future.

A.K. and Peter did a fantastic job of helping us move out of our 3rd floor apartment! They showed up on time and were extremely nice and helpful! If I were to ever move again I would call them for help.

Very efficient and professional. Our two movers went above and beyond to make our move so much easier.

The guys were friendly, amazing, and fast! I will absolutely recommend Hire a Helper and IJC Logistics to everyone I know that needs to move.

Compare rental trucks and find your perfect size.

We asked local movers about what you should know about moving in Charlotte. (They're really nice!)

"If you are moving into or out of the Charlotte area between May and August, be sure to check the weather!

We get an annual average of 43 inches of rain and it can definitely impact not only your drive, but your load/unload process as well. Be sure to make your truck reservations at least 2 weeks in advance, especially during peak moving season, and note that some locations are not open on Sunday! Make sure to also plan your arrival/departure in regards to rush hour traffic. It can make a big difference!"

"There are permit requirements to have pods put on the street. I would recommend highway travel if possible "

"Local U-Haul centers will rent moving pads by the dozen, so there's no need to buy them. Rent for ~$10 per dozen and return them to U-Haul when you are done moving."

"U-Haul on Ashley Road is a great spot to rent trucks and U-boxes."

Because we know a little about moving, we've written some need-to-know articles that can help make moving in Charlotte—or anywhere really!—as easy as can be.

Charlotte, NC is an inviting place to live, sure, but it's got more going on than just Southern charm. There are famous attractions like the NASCAR Hall of Fame, an homage to the city's racing heritage, as well as tons of art in North Davidson (NoDA), Uptown and beyond (including the Levine Museum of the New South). Whether you're captivated by the busy city or exploring the area's quieter corners, Charlotte has something for everyone.

Uptown Charlotte, dubbed the "Queen City's Crown Jewel," stands out as the core of Charlotte's urban landscape. Positioned centrally within the city, Uptown Charlotte is well-connected with a range of transit options, enhancing accessibility. Booking movers early is a good option not just for the heavy lifting, but they also know how to sidestep potential congestion around Tryon Street and Trade Street.

Providence Estates East is a haven of suburban tranquility. Early planning and coordination with movers can contribute to a seamless transition for those planning a move to Providence Estates East. It's a stress-free place with beautiful parks, so get a jump on having no stress with HireAHelper movers who will help you settle into one of Charlotte's most family-friendly neighborhoods.

Established in the late 19th century, Dilworth is known for its tree-lined streets, well-preserved bungalows, and a strong sense of community. Besides its history, Dilworth is known for its cozy atmosphere and extremely walkable city filled with coffee shops, vintage clothing stores, and wine bars. Save your legs for all the exploring you'll do; professional Dilworth movers can be booked online without a hassle.

Myers Park is a prestigious neighborhood in Charlotte, North Carolina. It's known for its historic landmarks, such as the Duke Mansion, which adds to the area's cultural vibes. The neighborhood does require careful planning to navigate its tree-canopied streets, however. If you're choosing Myers Park for your new home, look into getting movers to load and unload your things to get a jump on exploring Freedom Park.

Why Do So Many People Use HireAHelper?

Nobody understands moving like we do.

HireAHelper curates local movers that have MC#/DOT licenses and verified user reviews on every single booking through HireAHelper, so you'll feel extra safe on Moving Day.

On average, movers on HireAHelper earn 4.8 stars out of 5.0 after 289,207 verified customer reviews “Professionalism” is a word you’ll see pop up a lot in customer reviews from Charlotte, with many highlighting their movers’ efficiency and hard-working attitude specifically. Whether handling large furniture or fragile items, customers said movers were careful and respectful of their belongings. Some reviewers emphasized how the movers solved unexpected logistical problems with ease, while others appreciated their punctuality and friendly demeanor. All in all, the moving teams in Charlotte consistently provided excellent service, going the extra mile to ensure the job was done quickly and without any damage.

The two Moving Muscle staff were on time, efficient and moved everything to the right room and were respectful and careful with my property and pleasant. I would hire them again.

Damon and Reggie were communicative, thorough, and kind. After having a recent experience with another group where my movers no-showed, this was the opposite end of the spectrum. They were wonderful and really efficient. Highly recommend!

Gavin and Jeremiah were on time and jumped right in loading our POD. They were fast, efficient and very professional. We will use them again in a couple of weeks to help move more furniture.

Awesome to deal with!

Available by phone in person to keep updated regarding POD actual delivery.

The guys were super competent, and conscientious when unloading and placing boxes and furnishings I. Our home.

They were one of the easiest parts of our move.

The services provided by you are simply phenomenal, both loading as well as unloading. You have a cheerful and knowledgeable staff who helped us in this move.

You have added one more happy n delighted customer to your ever growing list. Would love to recommend your services to my friends in future.

Never had a better mover! Donnie & his team were professional, skilled, and friendly. They took care of our things & didn't stop moving for 5 hours straight! They handled large items on tight, townhouse staircases (2 of them!) Cannot say enough good things about them.

Chris, Montario*, and Santiago did a thorough job. Very polite, respectful. They were sociable but most importantly very efficient and careful with the move job. Will definitely recommended these gentlemen to anyone and will call for these gentlemen for my next move. Thank you!

Ethan and Michael unloaded my moving container and do it quickly and efficiently.

They were courteous, professional, and on task. I absolutely recommend these guys.

This is the second time I have used all-around movers. I chose them once again because they were efficient, showed up on time and did a great job on packing my pod. I highly recommend them and know you will be satisfied with the results.

Myron and Dennis were absolutely amazing! If I could give them 10 stars or maybe 20, I would do it. If you want professional, speedy, and nice guys, these are who you want to hire. They packed the truck so well we could have used a smaller truck. They are absolutely amazing, I can't stop saying that!

Dorothy Randol

The team made my moving day a breeze! I appreciate how efficient they were and accommodating. I've already recommended them to my sister for when she moves. Great work and affordable!

The movers were timely, quick, efficient, and so very helpful. They made sure my furniture was assembled well and where I wanted it placed. Very professional, highly recommend!

HireAHelper encourages anyone that is moving to continue to check and follow the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommendations, as well as any state travel advisories.

A special license isn't required for lifting things in and out of a truck or storage container. However, some service providers choose to list other licenses they carry (like business licenses, full-service mover licenses, etc) as a way to attract more customers and legitimize their listing.

If you are booking Movers + Truck through HireAHelper, all of those movers have verified Full Service Moving License and Commercial Liability.

When you provide your ZIP code we will only show you Service Providers that cover your area. Service Providers aren't on the clock until they arrive at your doorstep. The amount you pay on HireAHelper includes the Service Provider's travel fees to and from the job site.

When you provide your two ZIP codes (load and unload) we will only show you the Service Providers that cover both areas. Travel policies can vary per location so you will see what those fees are when going through the booking process. If you are not sure where to see the travel pricing, feel free to call in and speak to a representative to get the upfront pricing details.

Generally, a move that includes an extra heavy item necessitates a crew size of 3 or 4 people, especially when stairs are involved. Moving companies typically add a fee to move an extra heavy item, which will automatically be added to your order upon indication. Nate (Nathaniel Carr) was excellent. He assisted us and was mindful of the time so we wouldn't get charged extra. He showed us how to work the lift and also helped get the items to the lift in addition to ourselves

I had an incredible experience with Golden Movers and can't recommend them enough! Our original movers, who we had booked a month in advance, canceled the night before our move, leaving us in a total bind. I placed an inquiry on Golden Movers' website, and within two minutes, Camillo called me back and scheduled a same-day move for us—truly a lifesaver moment! This local family business not only stepped up immediately, but their kindness, communication, and customer support were impeccable throughout. I hired them for a two-hour job, but they were so efficient they finished unloading our truck in under an hour! They turned what was an extremely stressful situation into a calm and relaxed experience, handling everything with care and professionalism. I'll definitely be hiring them for my next move. Highly recommend Golden Movers to anyone needing fast, reliable, and friendly movers. Thank you for saving the day - y'all were incredible!

This was an incredible and flexible option. If I had hired help to load it from the start, this move would have been half as frustrating. If doing a DITY/PPM, easy to make weight and make that reimbursement worth the hassle. Super communicative and flexible for military moves.

I was fortunate to receive the last truck in a very large radius. Budget reps on both ends phenomenal even though dealing with all the hardship and chaos from the storm

Great option for moving long distance or when you are not sure of the timing of the unloading. All went great except the initial delivery of the empty container arrived several days late and threw off my loading schedule.

The truck was very new and well equipped with various features, like a backup camera, cruise control, wall outlet, USB Port, AC Adapter, and a light that shows when cars are in your blindspots. I had an issue where my battery died, and the free roadside was simple to call and get set up, and the guy arrived 20 minutes early, to boot!

U-haul did well on their commitment and promise, but Kendra the associate at the U-haul Moving and storage location (2797 Pelham Pwky) in pelham, al U-haul location was very rude and short with patience.

This is my second move with U-Pack. They are a no nonsense company that simplifies moving without going with a major moving company. I wish I had known that a second truck would be cheaper than the first on a total dollar basis. Now I know.

My one bedroom fit great into a 12' truck but I didn't have a sofa or tables so I would definitely size up if you have more traditional "one bedroom" apartment furniture. My movers made sure everything fit though and nothing was damaged.

Pods arrived in Arizona earlier than expected. The pods were delivered on the scheduled dates and picked up when asked. I would definitely use them again.

Great moving unit for the 8ft. It looked brand new. I suggest updating the 16ft unit. The one I used showed a lot of wear and tear. Some holes could be seen at the bottom.

Excellent process with a quality staff. Just remember, they only provide transport...the quality of your delivery is highly dependant on the team you hire.

We rented a Budget truck in Lakewood NJ. Jerry ( I think) was the nicest guy. He went above and beyond to make sure we had the right size truck and provided great customer service. Would highly recommend his Very easy to work with when my arrival time was still in the air. They busted it out nice and fast once I arrived. Very professional! Well worth the minimum two hour block. They got it all done in just over a single hour when I thought it would be closer. Goes to show just how motivated they were, even with all of our last second requests and directions.

They did a great job! On time. Very careful and very efficient. Obviously experienced. Would use Great job, pleasant and respectful. They called to let me know when they would arrive, they worked fast and with care.

Jacob and Kyle did an excellent job! On time, professional, had the right tools for quickly reassembling furniture, were considerate and very helpful. I highly recommend their services. Thanks Guys!!

The two movers that assisted in our move did so with energy, insight and care. They were on time and respectful. In short, I would say they were the best thing since sliced bread. I recommend them most enthusiastically.

Jacob and team showed up on time ready to move. They asked for direction and took charge of getting our trailer unloaded. We were able to accomplish more than I expected in the time I had booked. Thank you for the great customer service.

The team of movers were excellent. They worked hard & did a timely, neat job.

They were on time, worked very hard and were very polite. They asked questions when they needed directions where to put boxes. We will hire them again.

They were very efficient and polite. Excellent!

Very efficient. Professional.

They did both the loading and the unloading. Worked really hard. Work really fast. No damages. They were on time and well prepared. I want to use them again in 4 months when we have to load the truck back up.

Our movers were super quick and did a great job packing up our moving container—they definitely knew what they were doing. They were friendly and helpful!

They arrived late and did not stay the full 2 hours even though there was still more to do. After they left I noticed they broke one of the drawers to my dresser when trying pull it out. I got the impression one of them didn't really want to be working. A few times some things were placed in wrong room so I had to move them to where they were supposed to go.

Prompt, courteous, and efficient. I would definitely recommend them.

The movers were professional, efficient and very organized. The crew needed a bit more help with moving a hot tub and they quickly brought 2 more "hands" on site to manage the heavy lift. I'd recommend dreezy's!!!

Arrived early. Got everything done quickly. We have a lot of breakable stuff and they did everything perfectly with zero damage.

Not knowing our timeline I requested movers to unpack and they showed up at my doorstep at 10am the same day! They were the most efficient, kind and accommodating movers we have ever dealt with. I'd 100% recommend them without hesitation. 5 stars.

Polite, professional, and efficient. Would hire them again without question.

The 3 three movers I had (sorry I am not good with names) were careful with my belongings. They helped with a few odds and ends that I would have been unable to complete on my own. I appreciated their help.

Damian, Danny, Marquis and Ollie showed up at the appointed time. They were prepared, thoughtful and respectful of my belongings. They worked hard and fast; I couldn't believe how quickly they finished loading, arranging and fitting everything into my cube. They are a great team and I would highly recommend using any of these guys and AAA Allstar Movers.

You rocked it! Not sure how you managed to fit it all into the container. Pleasant, polite and professional

Thank youGreat job

James and his crew are amazing! We needed help packing and loading for our international move and AAA Allstar not only got the job done efficiently but James made us feel at ease with each step of the process. All Star did amazing. They were quick and efficient. If I were staying in town and needed movers again I would definitely use them 10/10

These young men were very respectful, personable, HARD WORKING, and so very good about everything. The time spent at my home was exactly what a company representative should be.?????????

Great crew! Worked efficiently and helped with the odds and ends overlooked when packing.

They were efficient and professional, but friendly. I would definitely use their service again!

The two men were on time and very hard working. They were so polite and friendly. They finished the whole move in 3/4 of the allotted time. TJ and Jonathan were fantastic workers! I HIGHLY recommend them!

The crew was wonderful and very thoughtful in moving, staging and loading the material. Very respectful team and would definitely recommend them again.

Wow what a great crew! They were friendly and very respectfully and I am very happy they were careful with our belongings.

Bradley and his crew were phenomenal! Hardworking, careful with my things in moving, pleasant and trustworthy. Highly recommend

They did the job but they wore down as the job time went on and weren't really great at putting together household items. Their labor was solid. Their execution left more to be desired.

Fast, efficient and friendly, they unloaded our full truck and moved us in to an upstairs apartment in under two hours. Highly recommend.

I had a great move from the initial call with the manager to the team that came to help load my pod, they were professional, easy to work with and very efficient.

Bradley and TJ moved me today. They were super helpful and extremely polite Did a great job!!

Aside from Michael starting a fight with Marcus & Charles, okay. Broke a few things...what ever. I'm done.

I'm happy to give an excellent review. The guys were respectful, hardworking, fast, but thorough and conscientious. They obviously had experience and were good loading the truck.

The 3 gentlemen called ahead and informed me of their arrival time. They were prompt. They took care of the items being packed into the POD. I would definitely recommend them, they were very courteous and hard workers.

Well worth it!!! Wonderful people, respectful and kind!!!

Travis, Mike, Jeff, and Reese were fantastic. Quick, efficient, and very friendly.

Arrived right on time. Did very good work and I would recommend them highly.

The least stressful thing about selling my house and moving was Them Movers. Easy to schedule. Accommodating. Dependable. Respectful of my belongings and the home I was selling. And experienced; they saved me $1k being able to pack everything into one truck. Worth every penny. Thanks, fellas!

What to Expect When Using HireAHelper for Your Big Day

Instead of losing sleep wondering if you'll have enough friends show up to move you, wake up feeling utter relief knowing reliable help is en route. It is a good, glorious day.

A message pops up on your phone. The Helpers are on their way! All you have to do? Give yourself a hug and high five for taking action to stay sane while moving.

The Helpers provide a 1 hour window and will show up in that time frame. After going over the lay of the land with them, your job is to watch them do their magic.

Feel free to occasionally point to things and yell, "wingardium leviosa!" Or maybe just sit back and eat a sandwich.

Do a happy dance! Then easily pay your help. The movers only receive payment after you verify the job is complete. Simply call or text us to confirm the deed is done, which automatically sends payment to your Helpers. (Booked Helpers for multiple days? Repeat!)

At this point, you're probably still doing the happiest of dances - joyful to be onward to the next phase of life! Between the hip shaking, you can do something extra to help others move just as easily. How? By writing a review.

Reviewing is the very best way to promote our Helper Circle of Life. It lets you share your experience with others so they can see how it went and figure out if they should hire these movers, too. You'll get a text and an email with a link to leave a review.

If you've hired Helpers to unload and your new home is nearby, they will follow you in their own vehicle to that local destination—then get the job done. In this situation, you release payment after they finish unloading. If you're moving long distance (normally greater than 50 miles), you'll most likely need to book two different Helpers local to each area. The first set of local Helpers load up your stuff. You confirm the job is done. They get paid. Then, you travel to your new home.

You arrive (slightly weary, but excited) and a different set of Helpers, local to that neighborhood, will show up and take care of unloading your rental truck or moving container!

You get the same moving day experience both times, it's just different folks getting the job done.

Our Helpers can do a lot. Once you book your Helpers, they pack more pieces of furniture into a truck than you ever thought possible.

To be candid, though, there are limits. The Helpers you choose will NOT:

Some do, but ask ahead of time. If needed, it's easy to get moving blankets at a home improvement store, rental truck provider or storage container partner.

Due to lots of regulations, they aren't allowed to do that for you in most places. Better safe than sorry. Here are some other things your movers CAN do for you.

Things happen. In the extremely rare case that a mover gets hurt on a job, they have agreed not to hold you liable.

We don't throw around the term "guarantee" lightly. Not at all! We treat the agreement like your favorite piece of furniture: with consideration and care.

If you are not 100% satisfied with your moving experience, we encourage you to take action. In the event you are not happy with your experience:

1. We have a $1,000 Service Guarantee backing our word.
2. Our team is ready 7 days a week to make it right.

There's a syndrome you must know about. "Guilt-for-Move-Help" syndrome. It's like the mumps, but different. Here's how it strikes. Moving day arrives.

Ding. Dong.

Suddenly, professionals are moving your furniture... and you feel oddly awkward standing to the side. Even though you paid $$, your kind heart feels a bit weird.

Here's the thing, you sweet, sweet soul.

This is their job. These Helpers mean business and move faaaast. By handling the move with their systematic efficiency, they get the job done at mind-blowing speeds. Remember that they're there to make your life easy, not guilty. Let 'em do their thing. We promise that they'll be happy. You'll be happy. Your neatly packed furniture will even be happy. It'll be smiles on smiles.

If you really want to make the Helpers even happier? Here are a few ideas to help the Helpers!

That's really about it.

If providing refreshments isn't enough to cure the Guilt-for-Move-Help syndrome, task yourself with another chore. Create your playlist for the long drive ahead. Start researching coffee shops near your soon-to-be-home. Watch adorable cat videos... because that's always a good idea. Not enough? Here are 10 ways that movers love your help.

The Helpers are handling the heavy lifting. (Thank. Goodness.) Now, let's make the rest of your moving process easier.

Ryan Adkins and his partner were hard working, professional, communicative and personable. They took the initiative to sweep the floor after they moved something. I made a reservation for them specifically for the next day to finish the job.

These guys are amazing. They had our storage cleared out and in the apartment (upstairs!) faster than I ever thought possible while still being careful with our stuff. And they are super nice! I will call them if I ever need help moving again, and definitely recommend them.

Great workers, organized, careful and very fast. I would hire again and would definitely recommend Kalvin & Richie did a great job! Would recommend them!!

Darius and his crew were early. The 3 of them worked together well. They were quick and efficient but took care of our belongings. I would use them again. Thank you for doing an excellent job.

Absolutely so thankful they showed up, on time and worked hard. Definitely worth hiring these guys. They also took great care of my things and it wasn't easy with being on the third floor. Thank you so very much!!!

These are hard working, experienced, and friendly workers. They gave us a heads up when we were getting to the end of our original expected number of hours of help needed. I was grateful for their availability and willingness to keep on working until all the heavy items were on the truck and we agreed that the remainder would require a trailer which we could handle on our own.

The team you assigned to unload was great. They were on time, very courtesy and professional. They did an excellent job. I would recommend them to friends and relatives. Great job!

Fantastic. Fast, courteous, loved them. Would definitely use Brian and crew again. Friendly and easy to work with. Very careful with our belongings. *****

Pierre, Bobby and Blake were wonderful! On time, respectful of my property. Very polite and helpful and agreeable!

2 hours late, but the customer service Rep, Carlos applied a tardiness discount. When the movers did show up, they were prepared and more than willing to take everything! They completed the job in the 2 hour period.

They were absolutely Perfect!

Page: Meet HireAHelper | HireAHelper

HireAHelper began in 2007 with just two people and one computer inside a tiny closet.

Realizing our goal took a team of superheroes who understood every single move is different, and so are the needs of every local moving business.

HireAHelper.com launches online and accumulates 848 jobs booked in a year, all booked by two employees.

Goodbye, closet! Hello, (slightly bigger) office! HireAHelper is up to 5,331 overall jobs booked, with a tiny handful of part-time (and volunteer) employees.

HireAHelper drops all other labor services from their website and becomes exclusive to moving labor services. Marketing and design departments are created, and one full-time web developer is hired. (But everyone is still answering phones.) Up to 15,838 jobs booked.

HireAHelper welcomes its first major partners to aid in our goal of making the moving industry better: PODS, 1-800-PACK-RAT, and today, Budget. What else are friends for?

Got moving questions? We found answers. Moving101 launches, becoming the premier place for reviews and up-to-the-day, average pricing of industry leaders across the country.

HireAHelper moves itself, this time into a state-of-the-art, shiny office space ... you know, the kind with big bouncy balls for chairs? That's not to mention an in-house call center that's racked up 44,470 jobs.

It's time to get out on the porch! HireAHelper is acquired by the leader in home services, Porch. We begin spreading positive moving experiences to more people than ever before, nearly doubling in reach overnight.

HireAHelper moves its 250,000th customer!

HireAHelper is now the best reviewed moving service provider on the internet. We have over 2,000 incredible moving companies signed on as part of our mover marketplace. We've moved over 830,000 people who've all rated us an average of 4.8 out of 5 stars after more than 293,938 reviews. (Not bad for a start-up in a closet.)

Our in-house team made up of over 60 employees works 7 days a week to make moving easy and painless.

And while we're at it, we also host a lot of bang-up company events, weekly sponsored lunches, and pull off more than a few office pranks. We're also proud that a portion of our time and revenue goes to charity work,

Great guys. Knew what they were doing, where stuff went in the pod, and did it quicker than these ol bones could. I'd highly recommend these guys. We'll worth the $$.

The duo was so quick and took care of all of my items. Would definitely recommend!

The guys did a great job. They were very careful with our stuff and finished the job on time. Very courteous to work with.

We hired 2 movers - John and Kirk for our house moving. They were very friendly and polite. The job (Loading/Unloading) has done only 3 hours 45 mins. Thanks guys!

They worked harder than any movers we have used before. Norman and Kaleb and partner we're the best. They were even emotionally supportive. And so willing to do anything we requested. They made a very difficult time less stressful.

Big Boy Movers sent two movers for our move day. They were punctual, communicated well, took on any challenge we had with a good attitude. Overall just a great crew and I was not expecting such service. they completed the move with efficiency and excellent attitudes. Highly recommend them.

The three gentlemen that loaded our Pods were absolutely incredible. They showed exactly on time , they looked at what was required and waisted no time at proceeding work. They worked VERY efficiently and loaded everything in our house in three hours and were very careful and a lot of consideration to the handling of property. I couldn't be happier or more impressed. Very polite young me.

Chad and his crew did great job. They took care of our items, made it out without any damage to the house, and finished earlier than anticipated, despite our PODs being packed tight and having to deal with a few Purple beds. (sorry!)I would definitely recommend them for any moves you need help with.

They were very helpful and fast unloading our truck into our new home

Page: How Much Does a U-Haul Really Cost? We Found Out. - Moving Advice from HireAHelper

Moving Advice from HireAHelper

Blog

We've all seen it: that $19.95 per day deal that's advertised on the side of seemingly every U-Haul truck and van across the country. And that price looks mighty nice.

A little too nice, you might say. And indeed, you'd be right. Just like renting a truck is only one small part of your move, that $19.95 U-Haul rate is likely to end up being just a fraction of your final bill. We know, because we set out to rent a U-Haul with one question in mind: how much does a U-Haul really cost?

Here's everything we learned.

After trying to rent a truck on their website, we found out the $19.95 price point refers to local moves only, not a "one-way" move, where you drop off at a different location – aka a long-distance move (more on those prices later).

And most importantly, the $19.95 only accounts for U-Haul's "rental truck fee." And while this price is consistent for local moves, mileage rate and taxes can vary based on location.

Here are the U-Haul fees that make up a U-Haul bill:

The famous $19.95 price point is also exclusive to any one of their three smallest options:

UHaul.com

Of course, if you pay damage protection fees in the form of insurance, you won't have to worry about paying damage fees. But note that if you leave some kind of a noticeable mess, they will charge you up to $25. Maybe don't eat while you drive ... or transport hay.

Our final cost was $52.40 for the most bare-bones rental imaginable. We'll break down how we got to that number, as well as all the costs you could possibly run into throughout the rest of the article.

UHaul.com

It's not possible to pinpoint the exact cost of a specific truck size because mileage and tax rates vary, but local U-Haul truck costs are consistent everywhere. There are sites that ballpark individual truck size costs, but if you want an estimate based on user-reported, real-time prices for U-Haul moves, click on the graph below.

Yes, you can (usually) extend your rental at the same daily rate if you need it longer than 24 hours (for a local move). All we had to do was call before the truck was due back and ask the store for an extension.

There's also no limit to the number of days we could extend our rental. The only exception would be if our truck was reserved for the days we wanted. That's why it's best to extend your rental when you make your original reservation. Otherwise, you have to return your truck and get a new rental truck that isn't reserved for the additional days you want.

If you wanted to extend your rental to multiple days and there were no rental trucks available, U-Haul would likely sell you on one of their moving containers as an alternative, if those are available in your area.

For long-distance moves, depending on the distance, U-Haul assigns a minimum number of days with your truck. This might just be a single day for a shorter distance, like 150 miles or less. We asked and yes, you can add days to your long-distance rental — but only with advance coordination with your local U-Haul store, and only as long as your truck is still available.

Beware: U-Haul tacks on an ADDITIONAL $40 fee to every day you keep your truck after five days.

Here are the daily U-Haul rates for adding days to a U-Haul long-distance truck rental:

By the way, there are no discounts for returning the moving truck earlier than the minimum assigned number of days, but you still can return it earlier. Virtually the only advantages would be that it would reduce the likelihood of anything happening to the truck while in your care, and to get it off your to-do list.

As you can gather, one of the biggest variables that will determine how much your final U-Haul price is the mileage fee. (Not to mention, your mileage will ultimately impact how much gas you need to pay for.)

In general, the price per mile is region-specific. Mileage rates are also higher for local moves.

Our quote for our local Florida move was $0.99/mile on a Tuesday. On a Saturday, the quote we got was $1.19/mile for all truck sizes.

To give you an idea of the range you can see, we requested some more quotes from U-Haul and found the following mileage rates:

Los Angeles:

Midwest (Columbus, OH):

Meanwhile, for our Florida move, the mileage rate for either a U-Haul rental pick-up truck or U-Haul vans was $.89/mile on a weekday and $0.99/mile on a weekend.

How does that measure up to other parts of the country? Here's what we found:

Los Angeles:

Midwest (Columbus, OH):

Adding up the mileage:

In Florida, we drove our U-Haul truck all of eight miles from and back to the U-Haul store to take pictures.

For this, we were charged $0.99/mile, for a total of $7.92.

Imagine, now, how much your mileage fee will stack if you drive your rental 20, 50, maybe even 100 or more miles to and from the rental location? No wonder why some call this pricing structure “consumer-unfriendly.” (Let’s hope there are U-Haul coupons out there somewhere.)

Simply put, you will pay for any gas you use. You’ve gotta bring it back with at least as much gas as it started with.

The U-Haul clerk marked down the exact mileage and gave us their daily rate for gasoline. We had the choice of filling up what we used ourselves out in the wild, or paying U-Haul $6.25 a gallon (!) to do it for us after we returned it as a “convenience fee.”

And heed this warning straight from our receipt: “If returned with less than 1/4 tank, I agree to pay a $30.00 service fee.”

We spoke with a U-Haul rep who told us there’s no universal rule at U-Haul for this convenience fee, so this may be location-specific. (Oh, and in case you were wondering, U-Haul usually won’t reimburse you if you return the truck with more gas than you had to start with, so easy does it at the gas pump.)

Pro Tip: Here’s how to save money on your rental truck’s gas

A 10’ U-Haul truck should get in the neighborhood of about 7–10 mpg, although this can vary depending on what size truck you rent.

The 15’ trucks and bigger are equipped with a fuel economy meter on the dashboard that shows you whether or not you’re getting the “Best MPG” in real-time. Our 10-footer had one too.

When you pick up your truck, your U-Haul rep might think “full” means the needle on the gas gauge is more or less at full. But when you drop it off, that same rep will likely insist it isn’t full if there isn’t gas splashing out from under the gas cap.

What about when you're renting your U-Haul for a long-distance or out-of-state move? In This case, U-Haul truck rentals work a bit differently.

If you're moving long-distance, a certain number of miles is accounted for and rolled into your final rate. There are technically no mileage limits, but if you drive more than the number you agree to, you'll be charged $1.00/mile, which seems to be consistent for long-distance rentals regardless of location.

Remember, a one-way/long-distance to U-Haul simply means dropping it off at a different location than the one you rented it from. Technically, this could mean as near as a town over.

But while mileage is cheaper for long-distance moves, other fees are way, way more expensive, so make sure you stick to local (in-town) rates, if possible, and return your U-Haul to where you got it from.

With U-Haul, for both local and long-distance moves there's no limit to the number of miles you are allowed to drive.

But remember, for local, in-town rentals, miles are never included in the advertised day rate — you're charged per mile separately. For long-distance moves, you'll be charged $1.00/mile for anything beyond the expected mileage that U-Haul declares is necessary for your move.

If you do need to put on some extra miles, you're better off looking at Penske or Budget. This area is where the $19.95 price promise really falls apart, unless you're moving something across the street from your U-Haul store.

We didn't rent a trailer with our truck, but we got all the info straight from U-Haul.

For smaller loads or something super fragile (or heck, even quarantined), U-Haul offers trailers that hitch to cars and trucks (depending on location availability). There are actually three different kinds of trailers you can typically rent.

Here are the three (3) types of trailers U-Haul offers:

Here's what you should know about each kind:

For local moves, U-Haul trailer rentals generally cost as little as $14.95 and as much as $34.95 for the biggest size, before taxes and fees. And obviously, unlike with U-Haul's moving trucks, you don't have to worry about a mileage fee because there's no speedometer.

U-Haul cargo trailers officially come in three different sizes and come with a built-in, lockable latch, so they're secure.

Word of warning: None of them generally come built with the U-Haul "EZ Ramp," so be prepared for some extra lifting, or consider hiring moving labor.

Like their trucks, U-Haul advertises these as being as cheap as $14.95 (not including tax), and just like the trucks, that quote is only for the smallest versions of them AND only if you're moving locally.

There's no limit to the number of days you can keep them, as long as availability permits. You generally get between two and five days to use a U-Haul trailer for long-distance moves. Your quote will be based on your start and end locations.

All trailers are subject to regular U-Haul fees (minus gas and mileage) and — most importantly — come with an installation fee if you don't have the proper hitch.

All types of U-Haul trailers REQUIRE a proper hitch and lighting to hook to your vehicle.

You can use your own hitch if it's compatible — a Class 2 or Class 3 with a 2-inch hitch ball (a Class 1 is kinda like a bike rack hitch, in case you're curious).

If you don't have a proper hitch, or if the above sounds Greek to you, you must have one installed. You can either get that done on your own, or make an appointment with U-Haul to have them install a hitch for an installation fee of roughly around $100 or greater. (This is the fee to install and does NOT include the cost of the hitch itself, or anything else!)

But note that U-Haul won't install third-party hitches.

For the heck of it, we asked U-Haul how much it would cost to get one of our cars modded for towing a trailer, and for pieces and installation. We were quoted $540.68 online to mod my 2001 Toyota 4-Runner.

The U-Haul rep I spoke with about hitches told me that the cost of installation depends on the complexity of the work involved. Installation tends to be cheaper on older cars because the electrical wiring is simpler than with more expensive, newer cars.

(Fun fact: We were actually quoted a better price over the phone — $411.85 — so you may want to give U-Haul a call as well as run an online quote for the hitch, and pick the best price.)

Either way, this isn't exactly a steal, given that it doesn't even include the rental. But at least you'll be good to go for the future. You'll be buying all the pieces you need, but be prepared to get up-charged versus if you found the pieces elsewhere.

(Another fun fact: Let it be known that technically, you can actually rent a trailer for your U-Haul truck rental — which already has a hitch and lighting hook up on it — if for whatever reason you needed a little additional space.)

Without any hitch installation and for single-day use, the smallest cargo trailer (4'x8') with no ramp was quoted to us at exactly $14.95, before taxes or miscellaneous fees.

For their biggest cargo trailer (6'x12'), it was $29.95 under the same stipulations.

For a long-distance move, that quote goes out the window. Our quote from Clearwater, Florida to Gainesville, Florida for the smallest trailer (4'x8'), minus the taxes and miscellaneous fees and for up to five days (and unlimited miles), was $217 plus tax. And the largest cargo trailer (6'x12') was $508 plus tax! This is exactly how your U-Haul price can skyrocket fast.

Don't forget the hitch installation charges if you need it, which adds another few hundred, at minimum, depending on the year/make/model of your car.

UHaul.com

Utility trailers are needed when you have to transport something tall or oddly shaped. So when you move your arcade cabinet (okay, probably a refrigerator), you can strap it to this and haul it behind your vehicle.

Bring your own ramp, though, because only the 5' x 9' and 6' x 12' utility trailers come with U-Haul's fold-out "EZ ramps." (Careful, they rent a 6' x 12' trailer without a ramp, too.)

For local moves, prices generally begin at $14.95 and go up to $34.95 for the biggest size. The daily local rates don't vary.

We were only able to get a quote for a long-distance move for a 5' x 9' Utility Trailer because it turns out the 4' x 7', 5' x 8', and 6' x 12' Utility Trailers are only available for local and roundtrip moves. Our quote was $291 plus the rental fee and taxes for five (5) days from Clearwater, FL to Arlington, TX. (Keep in mind this doesn't include optional damage coverage or if you need to have a hitch installed.)

You can expect both larger and smaller utility trailers to scale roughly the same in cost as U-Haul Cargo Trailers.

You can expect both larger and smaller utility trailers to scale roughly the same in cost as U-Haul Cargo Trailers.

corvetteforum.com

Finally, if you need to tow a vehicle and aren't looking to ship your car, check U-Haul's car towing site, and maybe also call ahead to see if the U-Haul near you has any car and motorcycle trailers available.

This type of move can definitely save you some cash compared to normal car shipping, but keep in mind that do-it-yourself car transport is not for moving rookies and requires a lot of time and some skill.

For our local move, U-Haul trailer rental rates for a tow dolly for a front-wheel drive vehicle started at $44.95/day and an auto transport trailer started at $54.95/day.

To get an idea for a hypothetical long-distance move, we came prepared with two faraway ZIP Codes. Before taxes, our move from Clearwater, Florida to Gainesville, Florida was quoted as $207 for a tow dolly (for a two-wheel drive vehicle) and $237 for an auto transport trailer (for a 4-wheel drive vehicle). This was for a 2-day, or 48-hour rental. We were told by the customer service rep that there's usually a difference of about $100 between the tow dolly and auto transport rental fees, so you may not get two quotes as close as ours were!

They actually said my 2001 Toyota 4-Runner wasn't heavy enough to transport the car we wanted, so I would need to rent a U-Haul truck to tow it — an additional potential cost to keep in mind.

Please note that hitch installation, taxes, and other fees aren't included in this quote, which as you can see, can add hundreds more to this cost.

Oh, by the way, the rep told us U-Haul won't let you rent any trailer of any kind if your vehicle doesn't have a hardtop, SUV and Jeep included. They also strongly recommend you not exceed 55 mph with any of this stuff attached to your vehicle.

UHaul.com

We also didn't actually rent a storage container, but were told they are available for long-distance moves. Here was our quote, though:

My U-Box Container Quote for Clearwater, FL to Arlington, TX

However, according to Moving101's real-time, user-reported prices, the average price for a U-Box move is $3,074.

For a complete breakdown on all U-Box moving container costs before you make your U-Haul U-Box reservation, check out the Moving101 U-Box page.

U-Haul has two main kinds of insurance. They're called SafeMove and SafeMove Plus. Just like everything else, the added cost varies depending on whether your move is local or long-distance.

Keep in mind that absolutely no U-Haul insurance covers damages due to "...improper packing, normal shifting of cargo in transit or theft of cargo." When in doubt, U-Haul will probably win out.

Here are the differences between their two insurances:

SafeMove is basically coverage for if someone hits your truck. It gives you:

You'll have to look to your own insurance if you hit someone else, or get Safemove Plus, which covers you against damage done to another vehicle. And your stuff inside is only covered if you get hit, there's a fire, a windstorm, or if your truck literally overturns.

SafeMove Plus is basically coverage for if you were to cause an accident:

It covers overhead damage, like the kind you see on YouTube where people slam their trucks into low clearances, as well as tire protection. (You know, the two most likely things to go wrong if anything were to go wrong.)

And as a “safeguard” to your personal insurance, if you were to cause an accident or mess up their equipment somehow, this covers up the first million dollars (literally) of losses.

For our tiny little “move,” we were scared by U-Haul customer service into picking up U-Haul’s regular SafeMove coverage for $15. SafeMove Plus would have cost us $28.

No, you don’t have to buy insurance of any kind to rent a U-Haul.

But should you?

Here’s the thing: While you’re statistically in the clear, U-Haul’s policies are perfectly crafted to screw you if absolutely anything were to go wrong.

Keep in mind that U-Haul only offers SafeMove for their rental trucks. Pick-up trucks and vans have their own type of insurance they call Collision Damage Waiver (CDW).

U-Haul also offers SafeTrip for $5 extra per day, which means if you need roadside assistance they’ll send someone out to help. Kind of sad that you have to pay extra for this, but the option is there.

SafeTow is U-Haul’s coverage for trailers, tow dollies, and auto transports. It’s available for $15 to $75, depending on coverage levels and how far you’re driving. Here’s what it covers:

We didn’t rent any equipment or buy any boxes or supplies, but we definitely had the option!

Sure, it’s possible to move without renting (or buying) any special equipment. But even if you hire a crew of movers to come in with all their hand trucks and dollies to load (and unload) your truck, you’ll at minimum still need your own blankets to protect your belongings.

Here’s how much the stuff cost for us.

It used to be that you could purchase hand dollies and furniture pads online, but that no longer appears to be the case. However, they are available to rent.

Speaking of which, keep in mind that you save money by renting some equipment versus buying it. U-Haul has furniture pads for $5 per half dozen, as well as furniture dollies ($7 for local and $12 for one-way/long-distance moves) and appliance dollies ($10 for local and $15 for one-way/long-distance moves).

When you go to a U-Haul shop, it's likely they'll try and sell you on movers. Even the inside of their trucks have advertisements for moving labor all over them.

How much are U-Haul movers? Mover prices will vary dramatically, depending on the number of hours booked, how many movers you book, whether they are doing a load, unload, or both, and how soon you need them.

U-Haul's rate is for two helpers, and there's a two-hour minimum per location (your starting point and end point). But if both locations are near each other, you may be able to combine the loading and unloading at both locations into one two-hour block.

Movers through U-Haul cost as little as $200 to as much as $5,000, which is why you need to get your own moving quote to compare against theirs.

See prices for movers by the hour – instantly.

Easily book your help online.

The way U-Haul's movers work is that they have a network of local move helpers that sign up to receive job requests via their marketplace.

But unlike HireAHelper's $1,000 guarantee if anything goes wrong or gets broken during a mover, with U-Haul you're mostly taking your chances. They'll connect you with movers, but it's between you and them after that.

We found this part of their terms a little unsettling:

"Furthermore, the Moving Help request and its acceptance and if applicable, any resulting provision of Services, are solely between You and the Moving Helper. Therefore, when and where there are any claims, demands, liabilities, damages or losses incurred as a result of the same, You, your heirs, successors and assigns, do hereby waive and release Us (Our officers, directors, agents, parent, subsidiaries, affiliated companies and employees) from any such claims, demands, liabilities, damages or losses.

You acknowledge and agree that both You and the Moving Helper each have the right to pursue a claim against one another in a Court of competent jurisdiction or in another similar forum of dispute resolution."

This, compared to cheap movers through HireAHelper, which provides some insurance for free (and that $1,000 service guarantee if anything goes wrong), plus additional insurance starting at $12.

And in case you were wondering, for us to add movers to our made-up, on-the-spot move, U-Haul quoted us $312.

The difference between a move that takes you all day, breaks your back and your friendships, and keeps your stuff out of the hands of amateurs could be as little as $200, depending on how much stuff you have. Movers may be the most value you can get from any single add-on.

We went online and used a credit card to book a 10' rental truck, and we thought the booking was all paid up. But it wasn't — our card was just used to make the reservation.

While our vehicle was reserved online (thank goodness), we had to reproduce the same or another form of payment in person (cash was acceptable as well), regardless of what we used online to reserve it. Makes sense, but might be a stumbling block for some people.

After that, U-Haul put a hold on our bank account upfront for all the estimated costs (i.e., rental fee, environmental fee, tax, and mileage). They asked us how many miles they thought we'd drive for our local move and added that to the total cost for the hold. If you end up driving less, they'll charge you less in the end. If you end up driving more, they'll charge more. Plus they'll add any applicable miscellaneous fees.

When we returned with the vehicle, they checked out the truck before charging us to verify gas level and mileage (and probably to check for damages). We were given a paper receipt with the total costs. Because we used a debit card already on file, no further action was needed.

We were told customers paying in cash need to put down a $100 deposit, or the estimated rental charges, whichever is more. (Yes, seriously.) This would eventually be reimbursed — minus our total cost — upon return of the vehicle.

Here's how the cash payment breakdown works, straight from their website:

"If you're paying with cash, the following is due when you pick up your equipment:*

Local/in-town truck: $100 or estimated rental charges (whichever is greater)

One-way truck: $100 plus rental rate

*Cargo vans and pickup trucks must be reserved with a credit card. Deposits cannot be made in cash.

The total estimated charges for your rental are due when you pick up your equipment regardless of your method of payment. Payment can be made by credit card, debit card or cash.

Cash is accepted for pickup and van rentals. However, a valid credit or debit card with a major credit card logo will also need to be presented in the name of the renter."

There are no formal military, senior, or student discounts at U-Haul. However, it's up to the discretion of the U-Haul store you're renting at if they offer it for asking. The rep let it leak that anywhere between 10–15% discount is what they're allowed to apply to an order if they're so inclined.

Wanting to test the age limits, we sent one of our 20-year-old team members to officially do the honors of picking up the vehicle. It didn't matter, as U-Haul says you need only be 18 years old with a valid driver's license, and just 16 years old to rent a trailer attachment.

Our final cost for our U-Haul was $52.40.

Total: $52.40

We got a 10' truck, U-Haul's smallest with no ramp, and drove it a "colossal" eight miles. We bought the cheapest insurance, absolutely zero equipment and zero labor, and got hit with no other fees (since we didn't actually put anything in the truck).

Our bill was still almost three times the advertised price.

Of course, $52.40 isn't a bad deal, depending on what you need it for. The problem is that if you only need a quick lift to pick something up, $50+ can render a lot of good deals useless.

On the other hand, if you were seriously moving, odds are great you'd drive many more miles, and your mileage would probably be way higher, given you probably aren't hauling air. And if it's during the busy moving season, the rental rate will likely be greater than $19.95.

Nobody pays $19.95 plus tax on a U-Haul rental.

An extremely conservative estimate for a very small, local move is probably closer to around $125 for the rental. You'll realistically need one of the larger trucks for a real move.

And that is strictly local. For long-distance moves, even a small load will be much closer to $1,000 or more.

And that's assuming you don't need a hitch installed.

How much you finally shell out will depend on your circumstances, your preferences and your requirements.

Keep the above in mind as you plan out your move. You'll probably save at least enough for some extra coffee on the drive to your new home!

Does U-Haul provide snow chains for truck rentals in winter months or cross country moves, for safety sake?

I don't believe so. Trailers also need chains in some states under adverse snow conditions. Had to buy some to cross Siskiyou Pass on I 5 recently. Keeping them handy for future situations.

I need truck

I rented a 26 ft. Truck. It took forever to get it at their location. I told the clerk that the gas gauge had a lower reading than noted on the contract. It rained that day. Not great to find out as you unload that the truck leaked. Final bill did not adjust for the wrong gas gauge reading. The clerk was too stupid to do anything about it. Claim and complaint are filed with U-Haul Corp and my credit card company.

I rented a truck for less than an hour, put on 12 miles, refilled the gas with more than I used, and was billed $82

Quite a bit higher than $19.95

Need from Martinez ca. One way to Grand Rapids Michigan. How much would like to get an estimated cost if I went with a Uhaul for my daughter. We need a van to start in Allentown PA, go to Upper East Side Manhattan to pick up her stuff from her small 1 bedroom apt. Basically a futon, a couple of chairs, and personal belongings and kitchen things. Then drive to new apt in Brewster Mass. What would be the estimated cost?

Any reason why when comparing Uhaul rates on 2 different rental trips, there is a significant price differential? For example, 1 trip of 936 km's and 4 days allowance for a 10 foot truck quoted at $536 and another trip, same truck, with 840km's and a 3 day allowance was quoted at $1700!!!. And, the first quote actually crossed 3 provincial borders, but the 2nd one all in one province. Baffled!

How much would it cost for me to rent a small truck and a trailer for my car. If I'm going 360 miles away

How much it cost for two days

I just rented a van at 19.95 a day in town only I had to pay 80 dollars up front we estimate 27 dollars for mileage.

But I needed it for another day so they charged me another 45 dollars. I picked the van up at 330 afternoon and dropped it off same place 2 days later before 330pm. Other words I picked it up on Saturday and brought it back on Monday. The lady said that we owed nothing more and the next day I get a text from Uhaul saying I owe another 90 dollars. That's bullshit. And they said they will turn me in to collections if I don't pay it.

What do I do rented a Uhaul bought insurance it was stolen at a motel all contents gone and now they tell us we aren't covered for the burglary to the truck.

Nice

Website: www.hireahelper.com

Yup .. 20$ then they charged my . 68 cents a mile. 40 miles all together My bill came to 80$. But what pisses me off js we got the truck for the hirc. Since our car doesn't have one. We got home to start packing and hook up our boat and they left a lock on the hitch. Like wtf !! So pissed

Second time using them and they did a great job!

The young men that showed up to help empty the PODS did a terrific job. Never stopped till they were done. Brandon and Tyler were professional, courteous, respectful of both my belongings and my family. Before leaving they asked to make sure I needed nothing else and thanked me. You have two keepers. Take good care of them!

Craig, the owner is a master packer. No tying off required. Everything was perfectly packed into the truck and it was not all easily cubed out boxes. Craig should probably be a master mason creating dry stacked stone fences and walls for people to admire for generations. Because his packing was a work of art.

Brandon and Joseph were super nice and worked their butts off! They did an amazing job and I would absolutely hire them again! Thank you!!!!

Awesome team! They were a big help with our move. Very professional and moved quickly.

On time even though I had to change the dates a couple of times. Friendly. Got the pod empty quickly. Nothing was damaged.

Z and his teammate were super efficient and got everything moved up 2 flights of stairs no problem, including some heavy furniture. They were careful with the fragile items and very communicative throughout the process. I'd hire them again.

I would highly recommend Classic American Movers. They were punctual, efficient, and careful. They did a great job loading our Pod and making sure everything fit and was secure. A pleasure to deal with!

Great guys work hard and careful

I could not have asked for better service. Both gentleman were hard workers, polite and professional. They accomplished everything I needed and smiled the entire time. You are very lucky to have them. Thanks to everyone for a job well done!

Page: The 2023-2024 HireAHelper Moving Migration Report | HireAHelper

Despite a rise in moving in 2022, Americans have reinstated a decade-long trend of staying put; 2023 saw the fewest amount of moves nationwide since the U.S government began tracking the data back in the 1940s.

But why? The reasons for 2023's moving patterns are all in the little details.

First, the obvious: people were priced out of relocation at every turn. Home affordability hit an historic low last August while at the same time, mortgage interest rates jumped to their highest levels since 2022. Meanwhile, under the backdrop of student loan repayments resuming, household debt reached another historic high. In addition, inflation outpaced worker wages for the better part of the year, and the nationwide average rent cost was over $2,000 per month.

Secondly, the data from the 25.6 million Americans who did move tell their own story: rural states, family, and education all rose in significance in 2023, a year where Americans were grappling with countless economic pressures.

To gain a better understanding of all this, the 2023-24 HireAHelper Migration Report combines data from over 75,000 moves booked via HireAHelper.com, insights from our yearly customer survey, and all the latest figures from the U.S. Census Bureau, revealing how, where and why Americans were moving in 2023.

By ratio, Oklahoma was the big winner in 2023.

Oklahoma saw the most people move in than out of it since 2021; Oklahoma's net gain of people moving there (+40%) was higher than any other state! ("Net gain" is calculated as the total number people moving into a state minus the total number leaving a state, expressed as a percentage.)

Just behind Oklahoma in net gains this year were South Carolina (+35%) and Tennessee (+35%). These two states frequently land in the top 10 in our previous reports, yet rarely have they reached this close to the top!

Volume

By volume, Florida was the big winner for another year in a row. (By comparison to net gains, Florida was a still impressive 10th place, with about 11% more people moving to the Sunshine State last year versus leaving it.)

Texas and California round out the top 3 destinations by volume.

Biggest net loss states

So when you do all the math, how did the bottom states shake out?

Despite being a top three destination by volume, California was the state with the largest net losses in residents during 2023 (-44%), followed by New Jersey (-42%), and Louisiana (-31%).

Other notable 2023 net losers include other East Coast states typically associated with a high cost of living: New York (-14%), Maryland (-15%), and Connecticut (-15%).

Impressively, for the previous two years running, the U.S. city that had the largest net gains had been The Villages, FL. This year however, we finally have a new champion ... though 2023's top city still remained in Florida!

In 2023, Wesley Chapel, FL (+106%) had the greatest net-gain of any city in the country.

Right behind it was another city in Florida, Ocala, FL (+104%). Saint Augustine, FL (+58%) also made the top 10. (The Villages did maintain a healthy net gain ratio of +42%, but it was only enough to put it into 14th place on our list this year.)

These findings mesh with the fact that cities in Florida are among those with the greatest population growth in the country; not to mention, retirement moves were up 44% year-over-year in 2023.

The top 10 net gain cities for 2023 also featured two cities in South Carolina: Summerville, SC (+96%) and Myrtle Beach, SC (+85%), as well as two places from Texas: New Braunfels, TX (+93%) and Frisco, TX (+87%).

Conversely, the city with the largest net loss in people was Baton Rouge, LA, as 63% more people left the city in 2023 versus moved in.

Volume

By sheer number of people, Chicago, IL was the number one most moved to city in 2023. (It also lost a lot of residents, which is why it doesn't make this year's top net gain cities!)

Right behind Chicago for most people moving in during 2023 were Denver, CO, Austin, TX, and Las Vegas, NV.

According to the latest U.S. Census Data, by far the reason for moving with the biggest year-over-year growth was retirement! About 44% more Americans moved to retire in 2023, compared to the year before.

It's worth noting that moves for retirement aren't always implying a move into a retirement community; many retirees reported moving closer to — or with — their families. According to a study by HireAHelper, 9% of people in the so-called "sandwich generation" (i.e., people "sandwiched" between taking care of their kids and their aging parents) reported that parents aged 65 years or older moved in with them sometime during 2023.

Other top reasons for moving

"Moving for a new job" is the second highest reported reason for moving (23%) by the U.S. Census, with over half a million more Americans moving for work in 2023 compared to last year.

Reinforcing the decline in housing affordability, around 10% more Americans moved in search of more affordable living arrangements this year. compared to 2022.

Similarly, moves by those who "Wanted to own a home, not rent" are down 27% this year. Other housing-related reasons for moving, such as "To establish own household" (-21%), and "Wanted new or better housing" (-13%) are also down this year.

Insights From HireAHelper's 2023 Customer Survey

Within the Census Bureau data, housing and new jobs dominated relocation reasoning. Yet, in our yearly survey of thousands of HireAHelper and Porch customers, the top reasons for moving were, once again, family-dominated.

"Moving in with family" and "Being closer to family" were the stated reasons for roughly 30% of survey respondents this year. "Buying a new home" (18%) and "Getting a new job" (14%), were the second and third most common reason for moving in 2023, respectively.

Not shockingly, reasons related to saving money, such as "Lower cost of living" (10%), "Cheaper rent" (4%), and "Inflation" (1%) factored into a total of 15% of moves.

Other notable reasons for moving

As many as 13% of people moved partly because they "Wanted nicer weather" (8%), or because they were concerned about (or were forced to move by) "Climate change" (5%).

Moving for "Political reasons" remains relatively rare, as only 4% of our customers noted politics as a driving reason behind their move.

Did moving make people happier?

A strong majority (71%) of HireAHelper customers who moved in 2023 are happier with their living situation. Those who said they were happier cited better housing, being with or closer to family, and better weather as key to their successful move.

Interestingly enough, those who moved for "Nicer weather" were the happiest of anybody (77%), even ahead of those who relocated to an area with a "Lower cost of living" (75%), or those who "Bought a new home" (73%).

By comparison, only a bit over half (58%) of those who moved for "Family reasons" had similar rates of satisfaction with their lives, post-move.

Other top reasons for moving

People who chose to move versus people who were forced to move also reported different factors for their moves; those moving out of a preference were more likely to say they moved due to "Retirement," "Nicer weather," and somewhat surprisingly, "Climate change".

Moves made out of necessity, however, were attributed to "Getting a new job," "More affordable rent," or "Lower cost of living."

After last year's unexpected increase in the number of moves, 2023 marks the return to the trend that's been going on for decades – the decline of moving in America.

According to U.S. Census data, the total number of Americans who moved in 2023 was 25.6 million. While that seems high (and it is!), that's still a whopping 9% fewer than the total number of people who moved in 2022.

In other words, the 25.6 million Americans who moved in 2023 constitutes 7.8% of the population, which is the lowest percentage of relocaters ever recorded; it's a smaller percentage of people than even the very first U.S. Census figure ever recorded back in 1948!

While many causes are at play here, aforementioned housing affordability and workplace trends remain the most likely culprits for Americans remaining in place.

Moves Are Cheaper, Shorter and Smaller in 2023

As more Americans are opting to stay put, shorter and cheaper moves are becoming more prominent.

Move distances down

Based on the U.S. census figures, 18% of moves in 2023 crossed state lines, which is the highest share we've seen since the early 2000s. Similarly, local moves may appear to be less common, as only 54% of all those who moved in 2023 stayed within the same county. (This trend started a few years ago and accelerated after COVID, as moves like this accounted for 65%-70% of all moves going back to 2015.)

However, despite national trends showing a rise in people moving to a different state or county as measured by address, our records indicate an overall reduction in the average distance traveled per move, as measured by miles between origin and destination.

The average distance of a move booked via HireAHelper in 2023 is just 32 miles per move, down a substantial 71 fewer miles on average from the year before!

Coupled with coastal states losing so many residents, you could reasonably interpret this as job- and economic-related, as moving to a new state often carries with it a new set of tax and economic realities, after all!

Average moving costs down in 2023

cost averages in 2023. Alternatively, moving was cheapest in the District of Columbia ($328), Nevada ($330) and Texas ($341).

They were absolutely amazing! Did everything we asked of them and more! They were such a big help and took so much stress off of us! We plan to hire them to help us unpack as well.

good communication & arrived on time & are handsome & moved all the stuff quickly

Masterful job of packing the cube! Very efficient and pleasant to work with. I highly recommend them!!

Ryan, the team head, was outstanding in every regard, anticipating our needs and wven suggesting ideas when we were stuck. He was friendly, cheerful and polite. Hector was terrific and added humor just when we needed it (as did Ryan) and the third (can't recall his name) grabbed the broom and swept out the pods without even being asked! I'd love to work with them again!

Team arrived on time and ready to unload our moving trailer. Two additional guys showed up to help for the same price and everything was safely unloaded into our apartment within 15 minutes! We would recommend this team!

The two workers I hired were incredible, kind and fast! Wouldn't hesitate to use or recommend them at all.

Five stars and honestly that's not enough!

Careful, courteous, and capable.

Super quick and helpful! Highly recommend.

Nice, smooth, and efficient.

Very fast and efficient. Arrived on time. Very pleased with service. Definitely recommend Loaders Moving was great! They helped to move my parents into an ADA apartment with loving care. They were prepared and respectful, making my parents feel more comfortable with their presence. My mother's worries melted away when they showed up to help her move. Thank you so much! This team would be a definite Go To if our family needed assistance again.

We very much appreciated the scheduling flexibility and polite, friendly movers that helped relieve stress on a hectic day. Highly recommend this crew!

If I could give 10 stars I would. The level of professionalism and work was tremendous. The company went above and beyond what they were originally contracted to do and helped. I have already recommended the company to my peers and colleagues and will definitely use them in the future.

The two Moving Muscle staff were on time, efficient and moved everything to the right room and were respectful and careful with my property and pleasant. I would hire them again.

Workers are excellent! You will not get a call or a text from the company . Used them twice; they did not respond to my emails or voicemails left despite sending several. Also, expect a “move protection fee” even if they don’t actually move you. We had hired helpers for unloading only.

I can’t say enough positive things about Kenny and this company! They were so accommodating with my move and laid my fears aside as I moved from OH. They called the day before to confirm. They arrived in time and worked at top speed with ultra professionalism. Would not hesitate to use them again.

Did a fantastic job at really short notice (less than 4 hours).

We just moved from out of state, and needed someone ASAP to help us unload our U-Haul trailer to our third floor apartment which has no elevator. Really fast workers, super friendly , would highly recommend and hope to use again in the future.

They did an excellent job. They were very courteous, professional and were even able to come early to beat the rain and help us keep our new rugs clean.

Kenny and CJ are absolute legends! True technical experts in loading a truck like certified load masters. Not one piece of furniture even grazed a wall in our three story townhouse. These guys are pros.

I have used this company several times over the last 4 months. They are excellent. The workers are polite, cheerful and know what they are doing. I will use them in future if needed.

Kenny and CJ did a great job- showed up right on time and were very careful unloading all of my stuff and getting it moved into the house. They were very professional and I would not hesitate to use them again in the future.

Did a great job. They were on time, very helpful and accommodating to make sure everything was to my liking. Clean out the storage units (paper on floors, etc.). Placed stuff in new location as requested. Notified me before moving of any items that were already damaged and provided photos.

Very professional and courteous. They were so careful and meticulous with our belongings. Loaded the truck super well to maximize space. Highly recommend!!

If I could give 10 stars I would. The level of professionalism and work was tremendous. The company went above and beyond what they were originally contracted to do and helped. I have already recommended the company to my peers and colleagues and will definitely use them in the future.

26' Truck

Most people in Concord need a 26' moving truck. Compare rental trucks and find your perfect size.

Because we know a little about moving, we've written some need-to-know articles that can help make moving in Concord, or anywhere really, as easy as can be.

If you're looking for a balance between small-town charm and proximity to a bigger city, Concord, NC might be exactly what you are looking for. Concord has a rich history, a growing downtown and a family-friendly atmosphere. With Charlotte just 19 miles away, you're close to a major metropolitan area.

You'll also find plenty to do right there in Concord, from catching a race at Charlotte Motor Speedway to enjoying outdoor time at Frank Liske Park.

One thing to keep in mind if you're moving here is the traffic along I-85. It can get a bit congested during rush hour or on race weekends, so plan your commute or moving day accordingly. As for neighborhoods, Gibson Village has a historic feel with a lot of character, while Afton Village and Harrisburg offer more of a suburban vibe with newer homes and great amenities.

If you're hiring movers, locals recommend finding a company that knows the area well, especially if you're moving into the older parts of town with narrower streets. Plenty of people in Concord use HireAHelper for this reason - with vetted local movers who know their way around and make the process easier, it will be your best bet.

Overall, Concord is a great choice whether you're moving for work, raising a family, or just looking for a quieter lifestyle while still being close to Charlotte.

Nobody understands moving in Concord like we do.

HireAHelper curates local movers in Concord that have MC#/DOT licenses and verified user reviews. After we help you easily book your movers, we're here 7 days-a-week to monitor your move for you, both online and with a REAL person over the phone.
