COVID-19 safety is something we take extremely seriously. We created an entire page devoted to addressing our standards. Read more here.

First Due Movers was founded in 2009 by three Firefighters from Seattle's Eastside. While many of our employees are volunteer firefighters or EMT, not every employee is a firefighter. However, every employee must meet the fire service standards of attention to detail, professionalism, and dedication to selfless service. Learn more about us here.

As long as the move originates from within Washington state, First Due Movers can relocate your home or office anywhere in the lower 48 states. All interstate operations are carried out entirely in-house. This means we don't subcontract drivers or labor. The people who load your items will be the same to drive and unload your items at the destination. When we move a home or office across state lines, you have peace of mind knowing that your items will be the only items on our truck, leaving very little room for error and allows us to give you an accurate delivery date typically no more than a week out. Learn more about our long distance moves here.

First Due services the entire state of Washington for local moves. We are also licensed to move customers from Washington state to any of the lower 48 states. Learn more about local moves here.

Yes, tips are always greatly appreciated for a job well done.

Yes, we offer a donation and disposal service for a small fee, based on the total cubic footage of your items. We cannot dispose of garbage or hazardous items. All disposal/donation items are returned to our warehouse for processing. Any items that are not accepted for donation due to their condition are then taken to the transfer station for disposal. Learn more here.

All local moves (55 miles of transport or less) are charged by the hour and you're charged only for the time used. All long-distance moves (55 miles of transport or more) will be charged via flat-rate determined by the mileage of the move and the volume of goods being transported.

First Due can move most upright or spinet pianos provided we have sufficient man-power. If there are stairs involved in getting the piano where you want it, please discuss the specifics with our team in detail. First Due Movers cannot move grand or baby grand pianos.

It depends. If you have a small dresser and the dresser does not need to be moved up or down stairs, then typically clothes can stay in the drawers. We do ask that if any items are left in the drawers, they are soft and lightweight (for instance, clothes, linens, towels, etc.). If the dresser is on the larger side or if the dresser will need to be carried down or up a flight of stairs, we ask that you remove all items from the drawers. Please note that some dressers do not have the structural stability to be moved with any weight in them. So be sure to assess the integrity of your furniture before deciding to leave items inside them.

Yes. All crews come equipped with the tools to dismantle/assemble beds, tables, exercise equipment, and most other items. We cannot dismantle Murphy beds or remove them from the wall as they are typically installed in a semi-permanent fashion.

Furniture and mattress protection is our forte. Mattresses and box springs are protected with commercial grade 4-mil plastic mattress bags. All furniture items will be completely wrapped in professional-grade moving blankets, then shrink wrapped to hold them in place and to protect the items from the elements. This not only protects the furniture, but the homes/offices that we are working inside.

Protective neoprene floor runners are used to cover all main walking areas within a home or office. Blankets will be used to protect railings and door jams as necessary. We wrap all furniture in thick professional-grade moving blankets, then shrink-wrap them in place for total protection.

First Due Movers can move most appliances, however we cannot remove or connect any water or gas lines leading to your appliances. Water lines are most often found in washing machines, refrigerators, and freezers. Gas lines are most commonly found in clothes dryers, stoves, and outdoor BBQs.

In most cases we can assist with disconnecting wires associated with stereo equipment, TVs, DVD players and other electronic equipment, however we cannot set the equipment back up at the destination. Many home stereo and media setups are set up in very specific ways and may require extensive knowledge to reconfigure properly. Please arrange for a 3rd party to reconfigure your equipment if you are uncomfortable doing it yourself.

We cannot take firearms, ammunition, propane tanks, gasoline, paint, or any other hazardous or combustible items. If you plan to have us move any gas-powered items such as a generator or lawn mower, we ask that you drain or run the gas out of the machine. Standard household chemicals are accepted if boxed properly.

First Due Movers cannot transport or handle firearms and/or ammunition. Please set these aside or pack them in a separate box. If we are moving a gun safe for you, please remove all items prior.

We can remove your TV and mount from the wall at your old residence or office, however we cannot mount it to the wall at your new home or office.

Absolutely. Unfortunately our movers cannot “team lift” any items with a home or office owner. Additionally, we cannot have non-employees inside our truck or operating our lift gate. Aside from that, move on!

We do not currently offer this service.

Yes, we offer in-truck storage if your move-out and move-in dates do not quite line up. We do not currently offer long-term storage. Stay tuned as long term storage will be offered in late 2021.

Home » The First Due Difference

First Due Movers is a team of professionals that work hard and do things right the first time. Moving can be stressful and our customers deserve 100% of our effort. We are here to save people from one of those moving horror stories.

“Stress-free, from start to finish” – Our ultimate goal for every move starts here. Through our multitude of services and the hard work and experience of our team, we can take what is traditionally seen as a stressful process and turn it into a smooth and exciting experience for our customers.

Let’s face it, pretty much everyone can agree that moving can be a task and a half. Let us change moving for the better.

In 2020, First Due came in roughly 10% under the estimated moving cost on average. We take pride in the experience of our estimators who err on the side of caution. Our philosophy is to prepare for worst-case scenario but shoot to have your move completed as efficiently as possible. We also know that getting the most accurate estimate requires us to see the items and the home first-hand, that’s why we always prefer on-site or virtual estimates even though they require a little more time.

Throughout each and every move with First Due Movers, we will perform several walkthroughs with our customer, provided the customer is available. At the pick up location we do walkthroughs to ensure that we have fulfilled our customers requests and to double-check that no items are being left behind. At the drop off location we walk room-by-room with the customer to make certain that furniture is arranged to their liking and that all other items and boxes are placed in the proper rooms. Walkthroughs are crucial to the success of any move and ultimately ensures happy customers.

That's right – the first step is to show up to your job on-time and ready to go. You'll receive a text message or a phone call when we're headed your way, and another one upon our arrival. This will give you some time to prepare before we show up.

Proper furniture protection is vital, regardless if you're moving a couple states away or just a couple miles. We care about your possessions and that is why we protect your furniture 360-degrees with thick professional moving blankets and then shrink wrap to hold them in place. We do this before the furniture even leaves the room so that your furniture is safe while navigating your home and during transport.

We will be prepared to disassemble just about any piece of furniture that you have. Beds, desks, dining tables, and more. We also reassemble everything back to the way we found it so you can rest easy knowing that your new place will feel just like home.

Shrink wrap doesn't quite cut it and we know how long it may have taken to find that perfect mattress. That's why all mattresses and their accompanying box springs will be placed into tough 4-mil commercial mattress bags. This will keep your mattresses clean and safe from the elements.

Whether you're moving out of the house or into it, the need for protecting it stands. We begin all moves by laying heavy-duty floor runners throughout the house and placing blankets over railings. On top of that, the method we use to wrap furniture also helps protect every wall throughout the house.

Whether the job is small or large, we bring the same high standards of honesty, dependability and service to every job we do. Our goal is to provide a stress-free move while delivering “white glove” service.

Designed for small jobs of all types, including furniture delivery, labor only, and haul-away. Convenient flat-rate pricing and same or next-day availability makes small projects a snap.

We do it all, but residential moves are our bread and butter. We’ve relocated thousands of satisfied customers both locally and cross-country. Whether you’re downsizing, upsizing, or relocating, we can help.

When you’re relocating an office, efficiency and attention to detail are essential. You want a team that’s organized, efficient, and that will have you up and running with as little down time as possible. Let us do what we do best so you can get back to doing what you do best.

When you hire First Due Movers for your long-distance move, the same team will load at pick up and unload at your drop off. We don’t hire temporary labor or contract any aspect of your move to another company, so you’ll have one point of contact.

We do it all—studio apartments, 3-story homes, offices, condominiums, barns, and garages. We confidently service the entire state—from Seattle to Spokane to Sammamish.

Let First Due Movers set you up for success by having our experienced team pack for you using the best supplies and techniques. We can pack your entire house, or just give you a jump start by taking the kitchen, garage, or a room or two.
